

BRIAN ERNST — A $100,000 BABY

$100,000 and a New Baby --- Ulster Couple Strikes It Rich

By SHANE CROSBY

KINGSTON

"When I saw the name in the paper, I knew he was going to be a lucky baby," said Mrs. Joan Merz of Mt. Marion Monday after being informed that a lottery ticket purchased in honor of her fourth child born last week had won her family $100,000.

The name she saw in the paper was an announcement on Thursday that she and her husband, Calvin, had been selected for Post Position 3 in the grand drawing of the New York Lottery.

The baby, Brian Ernst, was born Friday at 6:37 a. m., at 7-pounds and 8-ounces.

The lottery ticket erupted into $100,000 early Monday afternoon at a drawing in New York City. The couple was one of four 100G ticket holders.

At Home

Calvin Merz, a truck driver for the Mobil Oil Company in Albany was at home when the news of his win was received over the telephone from a New York City newspaper.

"You won in the lottery," said the newspaper.

"I did?" said Merz, thinking he might have made an easy $2,000.

When he was informed that he had indeed hit the big prize, Merz said the telephone began to shake.

He rushed to Kingston Hospital where his wife knew nothing of the prize. The surprise was broken when his mother called her and told her over the telephone.

She was still stunned when her husband arrived and was on the verge of tears while waiting for her new son to be brought in for a news photographer's session.

Mrs. Merz's first answer on what to do with the money was: "Spend it." Her husband had other thoughts, and suggested that they save it for their four children's educations. "First," he said, "I am going to get a bike for my oldest daughter."

Merz said that when he told his six-year-old daughter, Susan about the possibility of winning some money on Thursday, she asked if she could have a new bike. "She'll get it now," he said.

It'll pay off the mortgage" on the couple's house on the Glasco Turnpike, he said. Other ideas: "Nobody is going to sell me anything I don't want," an unlisted telephone and "I thought of pulling the mailbox out," after people began to drive by after Thursday's announcement and were giving the house a second look.

Four Children

The Merz' have two other children in addition to Susan and the baby, Donald, 4 and Sandra 3.

Merz said he had never won anything before and said he didn't even buy the winning ticket. He said it was given to him by his father as a gift for the new baby.

The Merz family has been in the Mt. Marion area for almost three years, he said, and had lived in Brooklyn before moving here.

They are the third ticket holders in the Ulster County area to hit the big money since the lottery began in June, 1967.

First winner was a 20-year-old pre-law student from Shokan, Charles Paul Holt. The second winners were a New York City couple who have a summer house at Lake Katrine, Joseph and Louise Konfala.

The three winning tickets are not all that they have in common; they all have become very important at Uncle Sam's Internal Revenue office, where some people have their own special reasons for being interested.

50 Guerrillas Die In Marine Trap

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines ambushed a company of 150 guerrillas crossing a river in sampans and killed 50 of them. American headquarters said today. Defenders of a U.S. outpost northwest of Saigon crushed an attempt to overrun it.

Military spokesmen said Communist soldiers attacked the U.S. 25th Infantry Division unit 27 miles northwest of Saigon after dark Monday but in 15 minutes withdrew under fire from the Americans' machine guns and helicopter gunships, leaving behind 21 bodies.

One of Three

None of the U.S. defenders in the camp was hurt, front reports said. It was one of three encounters in Saigon's defense ring Monday that cost the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese a total of 46 killed.

U.S. communiques said the Communists shelled six Allied towns and camps overnight, a sharp drop from the almost three dozen attacks Monday. In one salvo into a South Vietnamese outpost 55 miles southwest of Saigon, they killed four civilians and wounded four others.

Leathernecks of the 1st Marine Division opened up with their rifles, machine guns and mortars and called in warplanes and artillery to batter the guerrillas trapped crossing the Vu Gia River 16 miles southwest of Da Nang Monday, military spokesmen said.

One Marine was wounded in the fighting, according to U.S. communiques. The survivors of the Communist company fled the battle as soon as they reached shore. U.S. Air Force C-47 "Spooky" gunships raked their escape routes with Gatling guns.

It was one of an increasing number of battles in the northern provinces in recent days. Military spokesmen said U.S. Army guns had fired into the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) again Monday, hitting a Communist gun that opened up on a U.S. spotter plane.

Significant Incident

The artillery salvo triggered a fireball, knocked out five bunkers and destroyed the Reds' 12.7mm antiaircraft gun, the U.S. Command said. The spotter plane was not hit. Spokesmen described it as the 82nd "significant" incident in the zone since the bombing of North Vietnam stopped Nov. 1. U.S. B-52 bombers swept in from bases outside Vietnam and dropped more than 700,000 pounds of bombs onto Communist troops and hideouts northeast and northwest of Saigon, where U.S. troopers had encountered the Reds three times Monday.

Meanwhile, Communist China is sending its ambassador to France back to Paris to keep an eye on the Vietnam talks, French diplomats said today.

The ambassador, Gen. Houang Ghen, has been in China the past two years. His imminent return to Paris reflects Peking's growing interest in the outcome of the peace negotiations, Asian diplomatic sources said.

Mao Tse-Tung's regime has urged North Vietnam not to compromise with the Americans at the conference table. Peking Radio recently applauded Communist demands that have contributed to stalemating the talks.

Peking has no place at the conference table, but some Western delegates have said no Vietnam settlement can work without China's endorsement.

Once again, there was no sign Thursday's session of the talks would achieve progress.

Israeli Planes in Heavy Attack, Bomb Two Egyptian Radar Sites

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli warplanes streaked over Jordan again today, and an Israeli military spokesman said they knocked out the major part of Egypt's early warning radar network. Amman Radio said it was Israel's heaviest air attack in more than a year.

A senior member of the Israeli general staff said the attack on two Egyptian radar sites in south Jordan was a partial answer to Egyptian artillery bombardments over the Suez Canal during the past month.

"There are still a lot of options open to us, and I think we will make use of them in due time," he added in a warning of further action.

Egypt meanwhile reported that its patrols crossed the Suez Canal again during the night to attack Israeli positions on the east bank.

Israel said its planes also hit two Arab guerrilla bases in north Jordan.

The Israelis said one plane was shot down and the pilot was presumed dead. Jordan said two other Israeli jets were damaged, and Red Crescent officials said they had been told the pilot of one parachuted into southern Jordan and was captured by Saudi Arabian troops stationed there.

The Israeli spokesman told a news conference the radar sites hit today were Egypt's sole watch points for Israeli aircraft and had compensated to some extent for the loss of the Sinai Desert during the 1967 war. Another spokesman said the sites blanketed Israeli air activity from Tel Aviv south to the Suez Canal.

It was believed Egypt's only radar stations left are within its own boundaries west of the canal.

Jordan said seven Arabs, including four soldiers, were killed, and 22 persons were wounded in the series of air strikes.

The Israelis gave no details on the length of the raids or the number of planes taking part.

Cairo Radio reported that Egyptian troops crossed the canal during the night, clashed with Israeli defense positions and fought their way out of Israeli ambushes. The report said the Egyptian patrols killed five Israeli troops and returned with only two men wounded.

Meanwhile, Israel planned to celebrate the 21st anniversary of independence today under strict security precautions and without a full-scale military parade for the first time since the state was created in 1948.

Instead boys in the paramilitary Gadna Youth Brigade were to march unarmed through Jerusalem. The four-mile route only touched the Arab sector of the Holy City. The plans for the parade were in sharp contrast to last year's massive military march through both parts of Jerusalem, a show of force that was condemned by the United Nations.

Thousands of police, civil defense workers, military police and army policemen were on duty in Tel Aviv to watch for terrorists who might try to disrupt street dancing, singing and celebrating planned for tonight.

100 Low Income Units Available This Summer

KINGSTON More than 100 units of low income housing will be available to residents of Kingston early this summer, according to Alexander Yosman, executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority, whose agency will provide the housing.

The authority currently provides housing in projects at Rondout Gardens, Colonial Gardens and Wiltwyck Gardens in addition to a number of leased houses. The majority of the 100 apartments to be made available will be in the Rondout and Colonial Gardens projects. The units will consist of 32 one-bedroom apartments for senior citizens and the remainder in two, three, four and five bedroom apartments. Yosman has urged all interested residents of Kingston to file application with the authority as soon as possible so that the authority can review them in time to fill the forthcoming vacancies.

The basic yardstick used for admission to these facilities is income, but in some cases, the income figure will vary, depending on the size of the family and which apartment complex the family applies for. Rondout Gardens is a federal project while Colonial Gardens is state-financed project and income requirements differ. The vacancies have been made available by the normal turnover in tenants and by the expected completion of Rondout Gardens in Broadway East by this August.

Members of the authority include George E. Yerry Jr., the chairman, and Benjamin Storms, Robert Slover, Dorris Dabney and Oscar Newkirk. Harry Gold is the counsel for the authority.

With the completion of Rondout Gardens the authority expects to provide housing for 337 families in Kingston. At present, the authority provides homes for 236 families, consisting of 131 units of senior citizen housing, 60 two-bedroom apartments, 28 three-bedroom apartments and 17 units of rehabilitation and lease housing. The leased housing is a comparatively new phase of the authority's program.

Trio Gets 15 Days After Drug Arrests

WOODSTOCK — Authorities arrested three young men Monday afternoon on charges of criminal trespass, third degree, and criminal possession of a narcotics implement after they were found camping on private property here. The trio had in their possession a turkish pipe, which is capable of administering drugs, authorities charged.

Taken into custody by Police Chief William Waterous and BCI Investigator Fred Cooper of the State Police Zone headquarters, Kingston, were Richard Seguso, 20, of 7 Oak Avenue, Tuckahoe, Jerry Laskowski, 22, of 150 Marlboro Street, Boston, Mass., and Peter Carpenter, 18, of 29 Sunset Hill, Fairfield, Conn.

Arraigned before Town Justice Rudolf Baumgarten, the three pleaded guilty to the charges and each received a sentence of 15 days in the Ulster County jail.

Chief Waterous said the arrests followed an investigation of a complaint from Peter Whithead that someone was tapping his water supply line leading from natural spring on his Upper Byrdcliff Road property. The trio, Waterous said, had disconnected a joint

Arrest Youth, Charged With Drug Pushing

WOODSTOCK — Christopher Owen Fischer, 19, of Box 949, Ohayo Mt. Road, was arrested Monday afternoon by BCI Investigator G. W. Zappolo of the Kingston State Police Zone headquarters on a bench warrant charged with being a pusher of dangerous drugs.

Fischer was later released on $1,000 bail by County Judge Raymond J. Mino, for hearing at a later date. He was the 38th person taken into custody in connection with the grand jury investigation that resulted in the massive raids Saturday morning.

The indictment accused the defendant of criminally selling dangerous drugs, second degree, and criminal possession of dangerous drugs, second and fourth degree.

Onteora Athletes--No Long Hair

BY TOBIE GEERTSEMA

BOICEVILLE

Long hair—considered an absolute necessity by teenaged rock 'n' roll musicians, budding gurus and the younger breed of politicians—may be just fine for football hero Joe Namath and movie idol Dustin Hoffman. But collar-length tresses and below-the-eyebrows bangs have no place in inter-scholastic athletics, says the Onteora Central Schools Board of Education.

In a move that has been under consideration for several months, the board set down a firm policy and guidelines on long hair in sports at its Monday night meeting in Boiceville. In spite of the fact that Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harold Snyder, speaking for the council that had considered the question of proper head adornments for male athletes, recommended a "long hair" resolution that would forbid "for reasons of health and safety" participation in inter-scholastic athletics by long-haired athletes in all sports except cross country and golf, the board was convinced the recommendation did not go far enough. In a reversal, members voted unanimously to exclude all long-haired athletes from all sports.

"Long hair" was defined as hair that "would impede the vision" and "could be a danger in a contact sport" should an opponent seize the opportunity of seizing the hair. Masculine tresses "over the eyes and collar" are now definitely forbidden for all would-be Onteora football, basketball, baseball, cross country, track, golf, skiing and wrestling candidates. Onteora will also lose three of its top professionals by summer's end. Coming as a surprise at Monday night's meeting of the board were the resignations of Ralph C. Breakell, District Clerk and Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Business; Carl D. Brown, High School Principal; and Paul K. Jordan, Chairman of the Physical Education Department and Director of Athletics.

All Three Praised

A visibly stunned board accepted all three resignations with "deep regret," while praising the trio of administrative executives for "outstanding service" to the school district over the years. Breakell, who was credited by board president Richard O. Langham with "saving the taxpayers an uncounted amount of money and making Onteora one of the most efficient school districts in the area" during his four years at OCS, leaves Aug. 1 to take advantage of a similar opportunity he says he "cannot ignore" with the Gloversville Enlarged City School District.

Brown, who has been with Onteora for seven years, was praised by Langham as an "outstanding administrator." His resignation becomes effective July 31 when he will join the New Milford Senior High School in New Milford, Conn. as principal. Coach Jordan, who has led Onteora teams to championship status during his 10 years at the Boiceville school, will become head football coach at South Burlington High School South Burlington, Vt.

Lamenting the fact that in "attracting outstanding people," Onteora faces the problem that these people "must move on and ahead to greater challenges," the board immediately appointed John E. Stefano, present High School Vice-Principal, to succeed Brown with the title of junior senior High School Principal, effective July 1. Frank MacMartin, who has been an administrative intern, was named Assistant Principal as of July 1.

To Screen Candidates

Board president Langham also appointed a committee to interview candidates for the position being vacated by Breakell, for high school vice-principal, and other administrative offices. The committee includes trustees Patrick Dodge, Edward Goddard, and Charles Weidner, chairman. Five applications are already on file for consideration.

Other resignations accepted by the board at Monday's meeting included: Mrs. Mary Ann Dechen, Phoenicia Elementary School teacher, who leaves June 30 for Suffolk County, L. I., where her husband has accepted a new position; Richard Neiman, high school social studies teacher, who is resigning June 30; Marjorie P. Clark, who asked that her resignation be accepted for reasons of poor health; Miss Winifred Bateman, who is retiring June 30 after 14 years as a stringed instrument teacher in the district; and Mrs. Nancy Broughton, School Nurse Teacher at Bennett Elementary School, who requested a maternity leave for a full year beginning Sept. 1.

In other business at Monday's regular monthly meeting, the board announced the following forums on the 1969-70 school budget to be voted on May 7: West Hurley School, tonight (April 22); Boiceville High School, April 23; Bennett and Woodstock Schools, April 24; Woodstock School under auspices of local Jaycees, April 29; and Phoenicia School, April 30. All forum hearings will be held at 8 p. m.

B of E Vacancies

With five vacancies to be voted on for the Board of Education on May 7, only two petitions for board candidacy have been filed to date. Definitely committed to make the run are present trustees, Edward Goddard and Jack Kahn, of Woodstock and West Hurley respectively. Goddard will seek a three year unexpired term and Kahn will be on the ballot for a five year term.

Legislative Leaders at Odds Over Court's Welfare Ruling

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Legislative leaders were at odds today on whether the U.S. Supreme Court decision Monday would invalidate the state's new residency law.

The State Social Services Department says only that it will study the decision before commenting.

At issue was the ruling of the nation's highest court in striking down the strict, one-year residency requirements in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia.

Prohibition of benefits to residents of less than a year, the court said, creates two separate classes of poor people. This is "invidious discrimination" denying the newly migrated "equal protection of the laws," the decision read.

Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut, D - Brooklyn, said that "the Republican residency requirement bill passed here less than three weeks ago was clearly unconstitutional in view of past court decisions."

"The Supreme Court now has acted with respect to residency laws in other states," he said, "and we can expect that it will find New York's law similarly unconstitutional."

Republican leaders disagreed with Steingut's argument, noting that the state's residency law carries qualifications.

It does not deny aid to all those who enter the state within a year, one leader said.

Under the new law, a person who applies for welfare within a year after he takes up residence must prove he did not come into New York specifically for welfare.

Republican lawmakers pushed through the residency requirement in the hopes of saving $2.5 million this year in welfare costs.

Welfare officials repeatedly have maintained that new residents contribute only a minute percentage to the rise in the state's welfare rolls.

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will go to the New York's highest court, the Court of Appeals, over its disagreement with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation on the use of underground power cables in Broadway East.

The move to the Court of Appeals came as a result of a 3-2 judgment, recently, by the Appellate Court in favor of Central Hudson.

The case goes back to the original urban renewal plan which called for the relocation of power lines. The plan, however, reportedly did not specify whether or not those lines be above ground or below. Depending on the terrain, underground cables can be up to eight times more expensive to install than overhead cables.

Passed Resolution

In 1966, the agency passed a resolution mandating that the cables be relocated underground. The utilities would not accept that mandate, apparently because of the additional cost involved. However, at that time, Rondout Gardens was in the latter stages of construction and power was needed. The agency and the utility agreed that the utility would install the underground cables and await final court action to determine who would pay the additional cost between overhead and underground cables.

The courts will eventually decide whether or not an urban renewal agency can or cannot mandate underground cables. It is understood that a city can mandate this but there is a question as to whether a city can delegate its authority in this area to its urban renewal agency.

It is also being argued in the Kingston case whether or not the Common Council did, in fact, delegate its authority (to the agency).

The Appellate Court, in its decision against the agency, said that the city should have specified underground cabling in its original plan. The dissenting judges said the agency's action on the underground cabling simply supplemented the original plan which called for the relocation of the power lines.

If the agency wins the case it is understood that the utility will have to bear the entire cost of the underground cabling. If the utility wins, the agency will have to pay the difference between the underground and overhead cabling costs. However it is understood that the agency, if it loses, and has to pay the additional amount, can apply for the money through the federal Beautification Program which has recommended underground cabling from an esthetic viewpoint.

A Test Case

George A. Beck, attorney for the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, termed the litigation "a test case" and noted that he had received inquiries on its progress from utilities and urban renewal agencies from many parts of the state.

Beck is currently preparing for the case and expects action in the Court of Appeals in the immediate future.

Pass $40,000 Higher Budget In Village of Saugerties

SAUGERTIES

The new budget for the Village of Saugerties, up $40,000 from last year was passed unanimously at last night's meeting of the village board.

The budget was adopted in the amount of $285,043.73 for an increase of $1.24 per thousand of assessed valuation for a total of $22 per thousand.

Village Clerk James Gage reported that one dollar of the increase of $1.24 is caused by the state five per cent cut-back in its spending and the 24-cent increase is due to the rise in the cost of living.

In other business Mayor Cox reported that a summons has been issued Angelo Mazzei of Flatbush Road, Saugerties, regarding his two buildings at the corner of Dock and South Partition Streets. Village engineers have found the buildings structurally unsound and the Ulster County Health Department is expected to make its findings known soon. The local fire department has deemed the property a fire hazard. The attorney for Mazzei has requested a hearing before another court.

It was also reported that the Ulster County Health Department has found a multiple dwelling owned by Mrs. Minnie Marcus of Kingston to be a health hazard. It is located on Partition Street and has also been determined a fire hazard. Clifford Jones was approved as a member of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company, the clerk reported a $15 anonymous donation made to the village tree bank and a letter of resignation was received from John W. Rivenberg, zoning enforcement officer.

Sit-ins, Strikes Hit Ivy League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sit-ins, strikes and other protests have spread to more than a dozen campuses around the nation, including five Ivy League universities. The protests usually focus on racial or military issues.

About 2,000 students at Yale University voted Monday night to bar the Reserve Officers Training Corps program from their New Haven, Conn., campus.
The resolution is not binding on the university, whose faculty and trustees recently voted to withdraw academic credit from the ROTC. Yale has 8,300 undergraduate and graduate students.

At Harvard University, members of Students for a Democratic Society and their supporters moved into the administration building for the second time in two weeks. The five-hour sit-in by 100 students ended quietly when the protesters left as the working day ended.

SDS' announced purpose was to stop work in the building, and Harvard officials sent secretaries home and stood about debating the militants. SDS called the "mill-in" after students voted Friday to end a week-long strike, aimed at the administration's use of police to end an April 9 sit-in.
Want ROTC Banned
The protesters want ROTC

banned from campus. The Faculty of Liberal Arts and Sciences has voted to make the program an extracurricular activity.
At Princeton University, scattered fistfights broke out when about 100 members of SDS blockaded two Marine Corps recruiters into a campus building. The officers were permitted to leave Clio Hall for lunch, but were prevented from returning. Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., remained in a "state of emergency" today, as tension of a demonstration by armed black militant students prevailed on the campus.

About 1,100 faculty members decided Monday night that the weekend seizure of a campus building by armed members of the Afro-American Society made discussion of discipline problems from earlier demonstrations impossible.

Cornell President James A. Perkins banned firearms from campus and said disruptive demonstrations would no longer be tolerated.

The faculty refused to accept a pact between the blacks and Perkins that ended the sit-in by dismissing charges against five black students stemming from December disorders. Dean of Faculty Robert D. Miller, an author of the pact, submitted his resignation to Perkins after the vote.

Columbia Sit-in

About 70 high school students staged an hour-long sit-in at Columbia University, demanding that the college open its doors unconditionally to graduates of four predominantly Negro high schools in New York City. Columbia officials promised to meet with the students to discuss the issue, which has been backed by SDS.

The recruiters after spending the morning in Clio Hall were forced to move their recruiting to Woodrow Wilson school after SDS students blocked the entrance to the hall. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Paltz President to Propose Student Recruitment Policy

By WALTER S. CLARK

NEW PALTZ
Dr. John J. Neumaier, president of State University College here, said Monday that he will propose at a May meeting in Albany of presidents of all state university colleges, an immediate review of the policy of recruitment of students on campus into military service.

The comment of Dr. Neumaier came after two demonstrations were staged by about 300 students yesterday afternoon in protest to the presence of Army, Navy and Marine Corps recruiters at the college.

A demonstration in Elting Gymnasium following a mass meeting was marked by more than 150 students parading into the gym, some shouting and uttering remarks directed at the recruiters. The students threatened to upset the tables where the servicemen were waiting to interview potential enlistees.

Many of the group picked up leaflets and literature explaining the advantages of entering either of the three branches of military service. The leaflets and literature were ripped to pieces as the students threw them at the recruiters.

Dr. Neumaier told the students that the best policy is not violence, rather it is to build a community for free speech and human rights. He told the group agenda for a May meeting of college presidents in Albany, a proposal to immediately study and revise the policy of recruitment on college campuses.

A few students spoke as tension appeared to be growing among the group in the gym, and about a half hour before the time allotted the recruiters expired. William Sample, dean of students, was told that the recruiters had completed interviews, and they were asked to leave the campus to avoid possible violence.

A second demonstration took place in front of the main building and shouting by some students interrupted Dr. Neumaier and other speakers, although there was no immediate attempt to take over the building.

Rocky Signs Provision

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller responded quickly to the seizure of a building at Cornell University by signing Monday a key provision of the legislature's get-tough assault on campus disorders in New York State.

"The intolerable situation on the Cornell University campus dramatizes the urgent need for adequate plans for student-university relations and clear rules governing conduct on the campus," Rockefeller maintained in a statement.

About 100 Negro students — more than a dozen carrying rifles — occupied the student union building at the Ivy League school in Ithaca for about 36 hours last weekend.

The governor did not mention the most controversial section of the legislature's program for deterring disorders.

That bill — passed by both houses several weeks ago — would deny state financial aid to students convicted of committing crimes on campus.

It is likely that Rockefeller will veto this bill. A spokesman for the governor said late Monday that the measure had not reached Rockefeller's desk.

Financial Predicament Perilous, Claims Jewish Appeal Chairman

"Israel's financial predicament is becoming increasingly perilous as her foreign currency reserves, already very low, continue to dwindle at an alarming rate."

This was disclosed by Abraham Streifer, chairman of the 1969 Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund Campaign, who today made public a report to him by Edward Ginsberg, general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal.

Ginsberg has just returned from ten days of high level briefings in Israel, where he met with Prime Minister Golda Meir, Finance Minister Ze'ev Sharef, Jewish Agency head, Louis Pincus and other officials.

Alarming Rate

In his report to Streifer and other campaign chairmen throughout the United States, Ginsberg stated that Israel's "precious reserves, not very large to begin with, and accumulated slowly and painfully during the course of two decades, are dwindling at an alarming rate."

Streifer noted that defense is still the crucial element in Israel's economic picture. "Already the most heavily taxed people in the world," he said, "Israelis now are being asked to subscribe to an $87 million defense fund for the purchase of the Phantom jets so vital to the nation's security."

"The government cannot pay for this because it simply does not have the money. Already more than 50 per cent of the total budget of the country is going for defense. Another way of putting this is to say that over 90 per cent of the amount taken in through internal revenue is going for defense. New expenditures came up constantly. For example, I have learned that construction has just begun on 19 new bomb shelters.

"But I submit that the State of Israel was not created to be a land where Jews could merely 'survive' but where they could live as free men, fulfilling the potential of our proud heritage, and that's where we come in: While the people of Israel fight for the life of their country, we must make life within the country meaningful.

Must Pay Entire Bill

"We must help keep the gates of the country open for the tens of thousands of new immigrants who are arriving this year; we must help to see that they are absorbed quickly and humanely into the society; we must continue to aid the sick and the hungry, the poor and the aged. We must do it by ourselves. We must pay the entire bill for the vast network of humanitarian social services that we have developed, just as the Israelis continue to pay for the defense of the Jewish State by themselves, with their money and their blood."

Although the 1969 campaign of the United Jewish Appeal and the Israel Emergency Fund is doing better than last year's campaign, Ginsberg called upon campaign chairmen and workers throughout the country to "keep the fires of concern burning with all the energy and talent and commitment that you and your colleagues can muster."

Coming Power Struggle

Conglomerate business mergers are under investigation by the House Banking Committee. The Justice Department's monopoly division is looking for ways to stop them as being in restraint of trade. The Federal Trade Commission has also looked askance at them.

But conglomerate mergers mushroom. Almost daily, there is a merger that adds a new product or service to a holding company that has no relation to the newcomer. That is one reason why authorities looking for ways to stop the mergers are frustrated. They are not monopolies in the old meaning, they do not add businesses of their own kind, so that they could be charged with restraint of trade. They are simply a great many types of businesses under one umbrella.

An ad in metropolitan newspapers by one of these new conglomerates tells in a few words what they do. The ad speaks of the changes the company has made, so many that its old name no longer fits, and a new one has been chosen. The message of the ad is that the changes have brought new people, new jobs, new products, new markets. Then it says:

"We now have a hand in almost everything you touch. A child's first book. A teenager's first car. A girl's first evening dress. A couple's first house. A bride's first meal. And there's more. More now. More to come." You get the idea: everything you can touch. That tells it.

No wonder that in his testimony Adolph A. Berle, corporation law professor-emeritus at Columbia University, who served as assistant Secretary of State in the 40s, warned that conglomerate mergers could result in a science fiction-type power struggle for control of the nation.

"Power, far more than property or individual wealth is the real stake here," Berle testified. "Supermanagements could become irresponsible, leading to a struggle for control of the nation."

After all, there are a limited number of business leaders. When the operators draw the various types all in, a handful of men will control the economy of the nation. We second Berle's plea for legislation to regulate conglomerates before they swallow up all business and through them the economic life of the nation.

'Just Sign Here'

"The deal that's too good to be true is probably too bad to be any good." This is the admonition given by a film produced to help consumers avoid being duped by unscrupulous door-to-door salesmen and others who prey on the gullible.

The picture was produced under a grant from the Fairchild Foundation, which is especially interested in protecting the integrity of retailing. It was shown by the Better Business Bureau of Harlem, to warn Negroes not to be victimized by smooth talking strangers. Copies should be made for showings across the country to consumers everywhere.

The film highlighted typical circumstances under which consumers overpay in signing credit contracts for their purchases. It is of particular importance in combatting "unethical and immoral" practices of businessmen which cannot be brought to court. Since they do not represent fraud, they can only be offset by an informed consumer.

The Georgia Legislature has given Gov. Lester Maddox the excuse he needed to declare that he will run his wife for Governor to insure that his legislative program would be adopted eventually. The General Assembly had thrown out his program and adjourned, leaving him no other alternative.

Resolution Could Affect American Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Within the last few days, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has issued a report, approved by a vote of 11 to 1, recommending that the Senate adopt a resolution which, if put into effect, could paralyze the operation of foreign policy by the President of the United States.

America's ambassadors and ministers would hardly be able to carry on useful conversations or negotiations with foreign governments without first submitting virtually everything of significance for approval by a committee of Congress. The alleged purpose would be to determine whether a "commitment" was being made by the United States — involving financial, military or other forms of co-operation between this and other countries.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in its report of April 16, includes a summary of the objections to the resolution as submitted by the Johnson and Nixon administrations. The latest memorandum of opposition was submitted to the committee by the State Department on March 10. It declares that a congressional resolution "could not change the constitutional powers of the President," and that the Constitution gives the President "the power to enter into many agreements and to initiate many actions that can be considered to be commitments to other countries."

The Foreign Relations Committee of both Houses are constantly consulted when critical situations arise. But, as Under Secretary of State Katzenbach in 1967 said in a congressional hearing, this does not mean that the Congress "should seek to substitute itself for the President or even to share in those decisions which are his to make." Incidentally, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee says in its report that the resolution is not intended to cover commitments already made and is concerned solely with the future.

It may well be wondered whether, if the President of the United States feels it is necessary to push a button to order the firing of missiles to deter a nuclear attack, he must first ask a Senate committee if that the President has the power of defense "against sudden armed aggression." But there are many possible steps necessary from time to time to thwart potential aggression, and these can require mutual defense pledges to be made informally.

It is strange that only one member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — Senator Gale McGee, Democrat of Wyoming — differed with the proponents of the committee's resolution. He says in part in the minority report:

"As a great power, American actions cause reverberations all around the globe and must, therefore, be carefully weighed and delicately executed. Not infrequently they must be carried out swiftly. The decision-making process may be reduced by events to a matter of a single day, or even hours. On more than one occasion the time allotted by crisis incidents to those who must make the decisions has been less than the time it would take to assemble a quorum of the Congress.

"Possibly an even greater factor which presses for increasing the power of the President in making foreign policy in recent decades has been the advent of the nuclear age. We live in a time when 15 minutes could spell the difference between life and death for millions of people — possibly even for life itself on Earth."

"The President alone under the Constitution has authority to recognize foreign governments and to enter into commitments which implement that recognition. In the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States, the President necessarily must have the power to make many commitments to foreign governments."

"At best, the Senate resolution has only the capabilities of mischief-making with the responsibilities of the President of the United States in foreign affairs, particularly in times like the present."

Senator McGee says it is difficult to believe that "the press, or students of constitutional principles for that matter, would permit Senate resolution 85 to go by unnoticed." He adds that friends and foes abroad will hardly accept the interpretations by members of the committee that the proposed resolution isn't going to affect seriously the conduct of American foreign policy.

Later, Murphy came uninvited into Gammicchia's living quarters at the small B.I.A. school as he was talking with two reporters and a Senate aide. The teacher was disillusioned, and about to tell the native village council that night of an important personal decision. As a reporter was asking what he would say, Murphy broke in:

"This investigation up here is for the committee, not the news media. You're cross-examining this guy."

Outside the house afterward, Murphy added to the reporters:

This guy is all torn up inside. He'll have trouble getting another job if you print what he told you."

The Gammicchia exchange with reporters clearly was not committee business. Whatever Murphy's cut-off showed of his grasp of news freedom, it undermined Republicans' charges they could not assert themselves because Kennedy hogged the tour in the inquiry and the often-impromptu planning was never barred as they said. Alaska's gutsy little GOP Sen. Theodore Stevens always mixed in. Murphy seemed to see newsmen and underfed villagers as more forbidding than the Los Angeles Rams.

Drew Pearson Says Neo-Nazis Have Power With Long List of Our Congressmen

WASHINGTON — Nobody in Washington would take seriously the small neo-Nazi movement headed by Willis Carto and his front, the Liberty Lobby, were it not for the long list of Congressmen who are in their debt, thanks to campaign contributions.

The situation might be compared to that in Germany when nobody took Adolf Hitler and his Munich beer hall Brown Shirts seriously until certain Ruhr industrialists decided to back them.

Today in Washington the Liberty Lobby, thanks to its influence in Congress, has been getting some unpublicized results. Its most important triumph is the promotion of Otto Otepka, last remnant of Joe McCarthy's era, to a $36,000 job on the Subversive Activities Control Board. Equally important was the nomination of Otepka's vigorous rightwing attorney, Roger Robb, to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

It was the persistent cross-examination by Robb of State Department officials, plus the persistent campaign of the Liberty Lobby, plus help from the John Birch Society, which led to Otepka's promotion from the $14,000 State Department job from which he was dropped, to the job on the Subversive Board at over twice his previous salary.

The facts in the case are extremely important. Otepka got into trouble with Secretary of State Dean Rusk when he took classified papers to Sen. Tom Dodd of Connecticut, later censured by the Senate when his own files were copied by his employees.

The classified papers which Otepka gave Dodd pertained to the security clearance of several officials, the most important being Walt Whitman Rostow, the M.I.T. professor who became President Kennedy's National Security Adviser. Rostow's father was a Socialist who during World War I had so admired Socialist leader Eugene Debs that he named one son Eugene Debs Rostow, the other Walt Whitman Rostow, in honor of the great liberal American poet.

There were anti-Semitic overtones in Otepka's taking classified papers to Sen. Dodd, since Rostow is Jewish.

There was another important aftermath. Rostow became one of the leading hawks of the Kennedy-Johnson administrations. Many of his friends and associates are convinced that this was to prove he was not pro-communist, as alleged by Otepka and the Liberty Lobby.

At any rate, it was Rostow who went to Saigon in the late summer of 1961 and recommended to President Kennedy that he heavily increase American military involvement. American troops in South Vietnam rose from 1,000 to 18,000 as a result.

Later Rostow gave similar hawkish advice to present Johnson, his friends believe, to counteract the unfair accusations of the Liberty Lobby and other right wingers who kept up a steady barrage against him because of his Jewish, socialist background.

Otepka's Lawyer Rewarded
Another triumph for the Liberty Lobby is the appointment of Otepka's attorney, Roger Robb, to the second highest court in the United States.

Robb served as attorney for the Atomic Energy Commission when it purged Dr. Robert Oppenheimer during the Joe McCarthy witch-hunting days. He has represented various other spectacular rightwing or conflict-of-interest clients such as Fulton Lewis, Sherman Adams, Bernard Goldfine, and Air Force Secretary Harold Talbot.

Robb is an able, vigorous lawyer. But what makes his appointment to a high court significant at a time when the Liberty Lobby and its neo-Nazi leader Willis Carto are throwing their weight around is the fact that Robb has also been a power in the exclusive Barristers Club, Washington's only legal organization with a long record of barring Jews and Negroes.

Only one Jewish attorney, Allen Kay, has been admitted in the club's 40 years. This happened only after Art Buchwald, the columnist, withdrew from addressing the Barristers Club four years ago when he learned they barred Jewish members. Following this, the Washington Post in 1965 and 1966 published two articles revealing that Jews and Negroes were barred.

A Post headline of Dec. 12, 1966, read: "The Barristers Club: Power and Prejudice. 245 Lawyers — All White Gentiles."

On July 13, 1965, the Post quoted Barristers Club President Hugh R. H. Smith as saying that "there are Jews on the waiting list now." However, it took three years to get the one single Jewish lawyer elected in 1968.

Ten years before, U.S. Judge Charles Fahy had resigned from the club in protest against its restrictive membership. He has long sat on the Court of Appeals on which Robb will also serve — if confirmed by the Senate.

Robb, as an inner circle member of the Barristers Club, obviously was familiar with its discrimination policy. He probably did not know about the Nazi sympathies of Willis Carto, founder of the Liberty Lobby, prior to 1966. But in that year this column published the details regarding the Liberty Lobby and Carto's philosophy, and as a result of a suit brought before the Court of Appeals — and won by this column — the details became familiar to the public, especially to D. C. lawyers.

It's doubtful that President Nixon knew much about the Liberty Lobby's background. The danger is that he deferred to such potent Senators as James Eastland, the big Mississippi cotton planter who is chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, and Sen. Tom Dodd, a member of the committee.

Other committee members who will vote on Robb's and Otepka's confirmations are: Phil Hart, Mich., Edward Kennedy, Mass., Birch Bayh, Ind., Quentin Burdick, N. D., Joseph Tydings, Md., Robert Byrd, W. Va., Sam Ervin, N. C., all Democrats, with Hiram Fong, Hawaii, Hugh Scott, Pa., Charles Mathias, Md., and Marlow Cook, Ky., Republicans.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Taxpayers Ready to Revolt

When a recent Gallup poll found that the threat of a "taxpayers' revolt," blessings be, is very real, this is the kind of discovery that brings everybody in Washington down off his stilts.

A full 69 per cent in the census (seven in every 10) say Federal income taxes are "too high." This is 17 points higher than the previous poll and the highest percentage of protesters in 17 years.

"The Nixon Administration had better do something about this" is the nationwide roar — and the warning — that runs through the replies.

As recently as 1965 president Johnson proclaimed his "under $100 million budget." The increase in only four years to $195.9 billion is, in the face of it, preposterous. The $4 billion President Nixon cut in turn, to $192.9 billion is a saving only in plans, not in taxes. It is also a saving of less than two percent. And the taxpayers, peasants, sick and tired of paying through the nose, are seeking a great deal more than that.

President Nixon states that he is ready to come around to their demands at the earliest feasible moment. But Congress is balking already.

It is apparent that most Congressmen do not realize that the floor has moved beneath them — that the climate has changed and that the temper of the times is against them.

They spend. We pay. They spend more. We pay more. And when they ride the gravy train, or play politics with the poor, etc., the taxpayers are getting madder than a polar bear in Texas.

From one end of the country to the other I hear nothing but resentment that policies and programs, which begin as emergency measures, become fixed, frozen and endless as a Washington custom. Old policies and programs never die; they just tax and tax away. And the cherry sound you hear is our workers' money clinking, clanking, clunking down the drain.

Dr. Gallup finds that the cost of living and of government (taxes) are such a major concern of the American people that now these rank ahead even of the Vietnam War. And in Mr. Nixon's search for economies there are millions of suffering taxpayers who have some ideas of their own.

First, knock the barnacles off the Federal payroll. Hey, that's our money! There are at present 3,055,201 civilian Federal payrolls, excluding those in hush-hush agencies, like the Central Intelligence Agency, of whom the civil Service Commission keeps no record. The Federal bureaucracy has increased 50 per cent during a period in which the population gain has been 63 per cent. For whose good?

This monstrous load is of itself largely responsible for the paperwork we pay for. The bureaucrats now hit us with more than 360,000 forms and questionnaires. These involve 15 million copies. We paid Washington about $8 billion last year to do this. But, it also cost us an estimated $20 billion a year to reply to the bureaucrats' merciless deluge. That's $28 billion last year out of our pockets, both ways.

Either give the farmers the money we send to Washington for them or let us keep it for ourselves. The General Accounting Office finds that of the $7.5 billion spent by the Department of Agriculture only $3.3 billion goes to farmers. The major $4.2 billion is eaten up by the government overhead, bureaucratic salaries, domestic giveaway programs and foreign aid.

Give the bum's rush to the image-makers. The GAO also finds that an identifiable 6,858 Federal employees are kept busy part or full time pumping out the good old puffs.

PIXIES® by Wohl

THAT'S A PRETTY SHAKY BUSINESS YOU'RE IN.

In total, Big Brother spent last year more than $452 million of our money for public relations, news, etc., informing and persuading us around the clock.

The first thing the Nixon Administration should do is fire about four out of five of these flacks.

The Washington tax matress is stuffed to the seams with similar padding — the places and cases are too many to list — and this is the first opportunity in many years to get burden after burden off the ready-to-revolt taxpayers' backs.

As the Gallup poll shows, the Nixon Administration may be judged more than may be realized by its success or failure in achieving this. Mr. Nixon, Congress, et al. are under the gun.

Problem of Apathy

Editor, The Freeman
This Thursday, the Teer Entertainment Association had to cancel a trip to New York City because they only had eight people going on the trip. Previously the Association had similar trouble with a trip to New Paltz for a "Sly and the Family Stone" concert. If this apathy among students continues the club will probably not have any more excursions to concerts or other cultural events.

The problem of apathy also plagues other organizations geared for teen-age involvement. Many clubs inside as well as outside Kingston High School have been harassed by the non-interest exhibited by many teenagers. It is obvious that programs to break through such apathy are needed. These programs should be initiated by local administrators and officials as well as the students themselves. If apathy is not replaced by interest than involvement activities set up for young people will soon come to a halt. If we allow this to happen, it will produce unrest and anger from the people who were interested and involved. Let us all urge our school administrators to look into programs which would get teens more interested in themselves, their school, and their community.

Sincerely,
BILL KELLY,
Pres. T.E.A.

Congress Response Good To Nixon's Tax Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's proposals for major reforms in the nation's tax code brought generally favorable congressional response, although some criticism developed over the plan to repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit. Besides calling for an end to the tax credit, Nixon said Monday he also wants the 10 per cent income surtax cut in half, elimination of income taxes on the nation's poverty ridden families and insurance that the very rich would have to pay some tax. "We shall never make taxation popular," Nixon said in a message to Congress, "but we can make taxation fair."

House Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said he wanted to check the details before making a definite judgment, but a first reading indicates "it seems to be pretty consistent with good Democratic policies."

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York said the repeal of the investment credit, which allows businesses to deduct 7 per cent of what they spend in new equipment and plants from tax payments, could result in an economic recession.

He said the proposals "will be strictly a Republican-Democratic fight," since GOP members generally favor extending the credit, while Democrats are opposed on grounds it is fueling inflation.

Another Republican, Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader, also was unenthusiastic about repealing the tax credit.

However, not all the criticism came from Republicans. Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, a Democratic member of the Senate Finance Committee, said:

"As far as I am concerned, I would like to expand the 7 per cent credit and make it available for retraining of skilled workers. The shortage of skilled labor is one of our most pressing problems."

However, the President got a better reception regarding the aims if not the details of his other proposals.

Senate Democratic Leader

Mike Mansfield endorsed the surtax reduction as "an objective we would all like to achieve."

House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the President is proposing "bold steps in response to urgent needs" and will move the country toward "a common sense and fair tax structure."

Pennsylvania's Hugh Scott, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said Nixon has proposed "genuine tax relief" and will get wholehearted backing from GOP members in Congress.

Mansfield said he like Nixon, favors giving relief to low income families, but he thinks there might be better ways than the President's plan to allow families not to pay any taxes on earnings below $3,500 a year.

"I think perhaps an increase in personal exemptions from $600 to $1,000 or $1,200 could be just as beneficial to the low-income groups and simpler to understand and appreciate," Mansfield said.

Reaction from business and industry, particularly to the repeal of the tax credit, was on the unfavorable side as the stock market fell sharply Monday.

Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the Association of American Railroads, said repeal would "discourage purchase of new cars and locomotives the railroads need to meet the nation's growing transportation needs."

While we share a common concern over inflationary pressures, we should hope these facts regarding a vital industry will receive further serious consideration," he said.

Ulster Riots Anew Over Alleged Bias

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Rioters stoned two police barracks Monday night in Belfast and threw flaming gasoline bombs in the streets, but British troops guarding key installations in Northern Ireland stayed out of sight.

Police scattered the crowd of about 10, and by midnight the city was quiet. There were no casualties.

More than 20 British soldiers were stationed at power plants, fuel depots and similar plants to guard against saboteurs. In London, Home Secretary James Callaghan stressed the troops would not be used to maintain order in the streets.

Earlier Monday, Roman Catholic demonstrators in Londonderry battled police for the third day despite appeals by civil rights leaders for the crowds to disperse. Northern Ireland's Catholic minority contends it is discriminated against.

Fighting also flared at Lurgan between Catholics and Protestant extremists who oppose Catholic demands for more jobs, better housing and abolition of property requirements for local voting.

The British government announced that Prime Minister Harold Wilson will meet soon with Prime Minister Terence O'Neill to grant more concessions to the 500,000 Catholics, one third of Northern Ireland's people.

Officials of the Catholic civil rights movement issued a statement supporting the use of British troops and warning their supporters to stay off the streets to prevent more violence and bloodshed. The Civil Rights Oxford Committee sent a telegram to Wilson warning that civil war was possible and asking for further British intervention.

Prime Minister John Lynch of the Irish Republic announced after an emergency cabinet meeting that he was seeking a meeting with Wilson and was sending Foreign Minister Frank Aiken to confer with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant about the situation in Northern Ireland.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army denied charges by the police in Northern Ireland that the IRA was responsible for a weekend wave of bomb explosions. The IRA said the police had staged the bombings to rally the fearful to the side of the government, emulating the Nazi firing of the Reichstag building in Berlin.

Overdue Plane Lands Safely At Kingston

KINGSTON — A private Cessna plane reported overdue Monday night from MacArthur Airport on Long Island landed safely last night at Kingston-Ulster Airport.

State police at Lake Katrine said they had been alerted that the plane was overdue and a check of the area airports revealed that the pilot landed the plane safely at Kingston-Ulster Airport. State police said the pilot was not identified.

Henry Cramer, airport manager said the pilot left the single-engine aircraft at the airport and returned to Long Island by car he rented locally. The plane is owned by Macaire Aviation.

Esopus Dems Guests of Conservatives

ESOPUS — Town of Esopus Democratic candidates, seeking Conservative endorsement, were guests of the Town of Esopus Conservative Party Club meeting last night.

Louis Klein, Kingston attorney, is a candidate for town justice. He expressed concern for the inadequate judicial response to narcotic offenders.

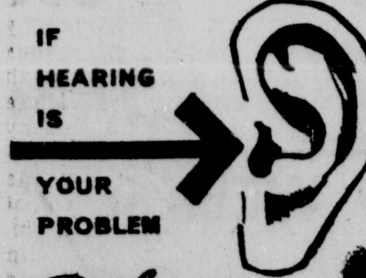

Lewis Kirchner, owner of Lew's Delicatessen in Port Ewen, is a candidate for county legislature. He cited the desperate tax plight of property owners and offered some reform measures.

The club will meet next Wednesday to select its candidates for county and town offices.

Silly Females

MAIDSTONE, England (UPI) — Two swans collided in flight Monday and crashed in the center of Main Street, causing quite a stir. The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said it was all right. "They were a couple of jealous females, and one was chasing the other away from a male," said RSPCA Chief Inspector Robert Nurse.

Fleet Move to Korean Coast Cuts Vietnam Air Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam naval air operations are being curtailed and the 7th Fleet stretched to the limit with deployment of a 23-ship task force to protect U.S. reconnaissance missions off North Korea.

"We've got no slack," a Navy officer commented after the Pentagon Monday announced assignment of an armada to the Sea of Japan where a Navy plane was shot down by North Korea last week.

One aircraft carrier and possibly other warships of the 7th Fleet have been pulled from the war effort to form a new Task Force 71 deploying somewhere off North Korea.

Cut by One-third

Officers said this means the Navy contribution to the U.S. bombing campaign in South Vietnam and Laos will be cut by roughly one-third. The United States has been keeping three aircraft carriers on the firing line in the Gulf of Tonkin; for the time being this will be reduced to two.

The 7th Fleet's remaining four aircraft carriers are going into Task Force 71 along with three cruisers and 16 destroyers.

Thus, officers pointed out, all 7th Fleet carriers are now tied down on two fronts—the Sea of Japan and the Gulf of Tonkin. And officers described the 16 destroyers as a major share of the Seventh's heavy combat vessels.

How long the fleet can maintain both assignments under present conditions is a matter of

European Tour For Teenagers Offered by 'Y'

The YMCA has announced that Camp Wawayanda is offering a six-week international camping experience for boys and girls from 14 through 17 years of age and a few openings are still available.

The boys and girls will arrive at the YMCA's Camp Wawayanda at Frost Valley, for a six-day orientation session beginning Monday afternoon, July 7, Sunday, July 13 they will be transported to New York City, where they will spend the night and leave on Monday from Kennedy International Airport by charter jet to Frankfurt, Germany.

The boys' itinerary includes stops in Innsbruck, Berlin, Stuttgart, Hamburg and Geneva; almost one week in Camp Cadet, one week in Camp Vaumarcus, Switzerland; one week living with an European camping friend in his home followed by a week of sightseeing in Germany. The boys and girls will return to New York on August 19.

The girls' itinerary is a little different and will include stops at Copenhagen, Denmark; Hamburg, Cologne, Amsterdam; home stays and one week in International Camp Hulshorst, Holland. ## Homicide Ruled On Unidentified Body From River BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — An unidentified man whose body was found in the Hudson River Sunday, died of suffocation in an apparent homicide, Dr. Michael Baden, assistant Dutchess County medical examiner ruled Monday.

He said the man was gagged when found by two fishermen south of the city line and that the body bore marks on the wrists that indicated the victim had been tied.

some relief in the way of replacements from the Atlantic Fleet.

Atlantic Fleet carriers have spelled Pacific carriers off Vietnam on occasion in the past.

Officers said the Pacific Command has three other aircraft carriers tied up in training operations off the West Coast. They could be freed, in case of emergency.

Four Carriers

The four carriers going to the Sea of Japan include three attack types with some 260 combat aircraft, the Enterprise, the Ticonderoga, and the Ranger. About one-third of their planes are F4 Phantom jet fighters, best available match for the Soviet-made MIG aircraft used by North Korea in shooting down the Navy EC121 last week.

Fourth carrier in the task force is the Hornet, an antisubmarine warfare carrier equipped mainly with patrol-type planes which will defend the group against any submarine threat.

The Enterprise, Ticonderoga and Ranger were pulled off Yankee Station, the Vietnam battle assignment, when the latest Korean crisis flared. Two others then resting in port—the Kitty Hawk and the Bon Homme Richard — were dispatched to replace them.

Two of the three task force cruisers, the Chicago and Oklahoma City, carry guided missiles which can be launched at enemy planes threatening the EC121s. The third, the St. Paul, is a heavy cruiser equipped with eight-inch guns.

Task Force 71 is the biggest U.S. naval outfit to operate in the Sea of Japan in years.

Man Charged With Criminal Possession

KINGSTON

James Austin Douglas, 26, of 237 Hasbrouck Avenue, was arrested by police here recently on charges of criminal possession of stolen property and public intoxication. Authorities said the cases are pending in City Court.

According to police, a call was received from Benedictine Hospital reporting a man was acting suspiciously there. Det. Lt. Lemuel Howard said investigation disclosed nothing was taken from the hospital.

Late Friday afternoon, Douglas was arrested for public intoxication, Howard said, and subsequent investigation showed Douglas had in his possession a wallet and personal papers and car keys belonging to Judith Phelps, an employee at Kingston Hospital. These articles reportedly had been taken at the hospital.

Deadline Near For Old Age Tax Exemptions

KINGSTON

Time is running short for those residents of Kingston who are over 65 years of age to claim a partial exemption on their taxes. City Assessor Mathias G. Richardson said today.

Richardson told The Freeman that a new application must be filed each year and that the deadline for this year is May 1, a week from Thursday.

Richardson offered the following instructions for those senior citizens seeking partial tax exemptions.

"In the absence of physical disability, each taxpayer seeking the partial reduction should apply to the assessor's office in person.

"When filing an application for partial tax exemption for real property of aged persons, the applicants should produce their birth certificate, affidavit of age from Social Security, hospital birth record, immigration records, insurance records, census records, passport, military record or any other reliable records, which show the age of the applicant.

Once proof of age is verified, no proof will be required in subsequent years, unless specifically requested. Furthermore, a new application must be filed each year, this is necessary because condition upon which the exemption depends each year.

An applicant must prove ownership and it may consist of a certified copy of a deed, will, letters of administration, or any other instrument by which applicant became owner of the property. Satisfactory proof of ownership must also show that title has been vested for at least five years prior to filing the application and a completed application must be in the assessor's office by May 1, 1969. If all the information requested is completely in order, it will be computed for a reduction for the 1970 Tax Roll.

"There have been several applications that it became necessary to return, when the property record card indicated joint ownership of husband and wife, and one of the owners died, but no record of change was ever recorded at the assessor's office. The proper change should be made before applications can be accepted," Richardson said.

Flood Crest Moves South Threatening River Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The flood crest of the Mississippi River pushed southward today heightening the danger to cities in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri while farther north the waters were receding.

Concerted efforts by the entire populations of some towns, and by elementary, high school and college students at others, had fought back the worst of the flooding.

In Minnesota and the Dakotas, the flood crest had passed, and evacuated residents including more than 12,000 in Minot, N.D., waited for the water to drain away so they could return home.

In Neche, N.D., on one of the few rivers still rising—the Pembina—workers reinforced crumbling dikes.

La Crosse, Wis. officials said the situation was under control, and Mayor Warren Loveland said "Our dikes are so strong and so secure we should have no more trouble unless we get a real bad storm."

Downstream at Prairie du Chien, the riverside section of the community of 5,800 was under several feet of water and residents were evacuated. The U.S. 18 highway bridge to Marquette, Iowa, with an approach under about two feet of swirling water, was closed to all but high-wheeled traffic.

Along Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, the Mississippi rose with a major crest still to come.

St. Louis, a few miles downstream of the junction of the Mississippi with the water-swollen Missouri, expected a crest of 32 feet — two feet over flood stage — by Wednesday. But the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the crest would not cause extensive damage around St. Louis or points south.

Waters covered a wharf section of St. Louis and farm land near Alton, Ill., but little damage was reported.

Las Vegas Night Saturday

Bates to Headline Cancer Benefit

A well known Broadway entertainer, Peg Leg Bates, who is a resident of this area, will be a special guest at the Las Vegas Night benefit for the Kingston Cancer Crusade Saturday, 8 p.m., at Walnut Grove restaurant, Field Court, off Broadway.

All the proceeds from the evening of good food, fun and thrills will go to this year's Cancer Crusade.

Other prominent figures in Ulster County's civic, political and social life will also be in attendance.

Celestine Chil Caruso, promoter chairman for the Crusade, said tickets are available at various places of business identified by Las Vegas Night posters. Tickets are also available from Dennis Pitcock, county Crusade chairman; Melvin Mones and Felix J. Ambrose, city Crusade co-chairmen; Albert J. Cawein, publicity chairman; Mrs. Paul Wendrow, executive director of the local Cancer Unit, and other members of the Promotions committee. Jim Thompson, Jack McWeeney, Harry Kaprelian and Mrs. Willard Goodheim.

McWeeney serves as ticket chairman for the event which includes a buffet supper, entertainment and play money. An auction will be held at the close of the evening to redeem the play money for many valuable gifts. An expense-paid trip to Las Vegas will be one of the top awards.

Anthony Alecca will head members of Teamsters Local 445 as croupiers for the games. Alecca is business manager of the local.

Peg Leg Bates operates the Peg Leg Bates Country Club at Kerhonkson.

Caruso said town and village chairmen throughout the county may also be contacted for tickets to the night of fun.

The Ulster County Cancer Crusade now in progress has for its goal $50,000 which will be used for cancer research, education and patient care.

Bates, a long-time star on Broadway and the night club circuit and on television, has appeared in scores of benefits for various worthy causes. In some he has directed shows, appeared as a performer and served as master of ceremonies.

He has received many citations for his work with charitable institutions. In October 1964, he received the Human Relations Award of Radio Station WGHQ. Bates, who lost his left leg to a cotton gin about 50 years ago, overcame the obstacles that deprived him of normal functions of a leg and a hand.

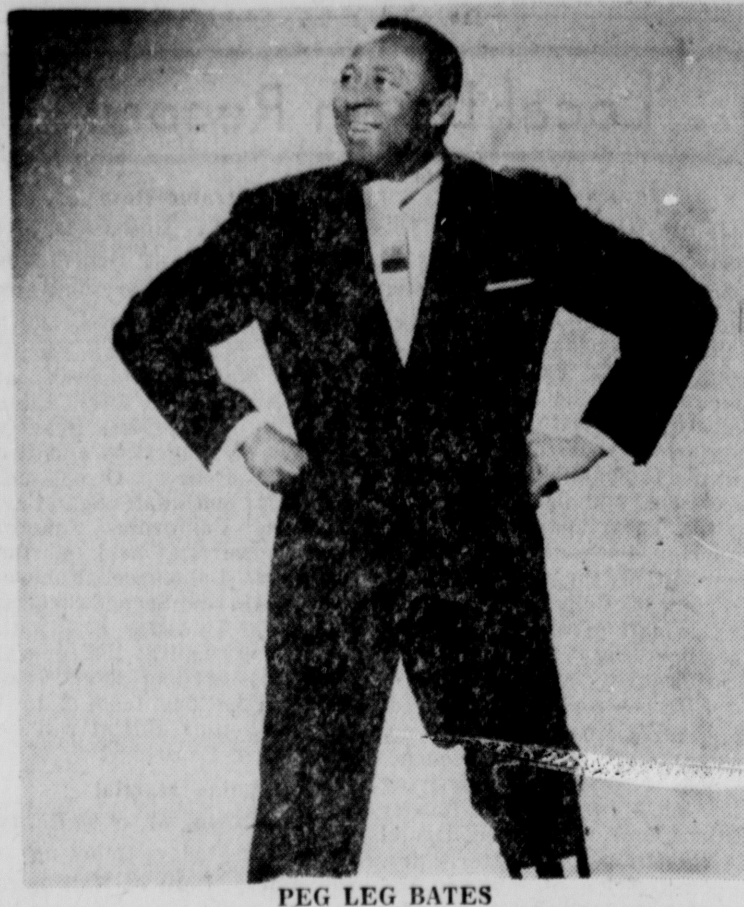

Bates, a former resident of South Carolina, won fame as a star of the famous Blackbirds of 1928. In this show he shared an act with the late great Bill Bojangles Robinson, who used to concentrate on those homes in the 13 wards that were missed for various reasons.

The city co-chairmen hope that the Las Vegas Night event will be a tremendous success and will push the city goal way over the top. They noted that city goals have not been met in several years.

County Chairman Pitcock stressed the importance of reading the life-saving booklet being distributed by the crusaders this year. This tiny sheet of educational literature may be the very instrument that can save your life or the life of a dear one, he declared.

Pitcock also said that residents should be certain before giving a donation that the crusader is identified. Each Cancer Crusader will be wearing an identification lapel badge.

Cancer Drive Starts In Town of Kingston

The Town of Kingston Cancer Crusade for 1969 will start in the next few days when volunteer crusaders of this community will visit each home with its educational message and to seek financial support for the American Cancer Society's program of Research, Education and Service to Patients.

Mrs. Douglas O. Dye, town crusade chairman, who announced the start of the campaign, said the local goal is $250.

All Cancer Crusaders are readily identified by the crusade badges they will be wearing, the chairman said.

Mrs. Dye listed the workers as follows: Sawkill Road: Jane Leedecke, the Misses Dawn Whispell, Cheri Buser, Ginny Malone, Jessica Duffy, Joann Reedy, Mary Jane Parker; Mellisa Road: Misses Joan Federman, Pamela Crowell, Lois Borghere, Donna McCallum; Wintergreen Hill Road: Miss Kathy Burton; Sawkill Road: Miss Janie Goldpauigh.

Citing figures from a recent survey which revealed that 57 per cent of the public did not go for checkups regularly, Mrs. Dye pointed out the urgency for checkups is seen here from the statistics that "while it is true today that one in three is saved from cancer, it is equally true that one out of every two could be saved. In 1968 approximately 100,000 persons died who might have been saved by earlier and proper treatment."

"There is no safer way to defeat cancer than by early detection and prompt treatment.

And to achieve this, regular checkups combined with a keen awareness of cancer's seven warning signals are mandatory," said the chairman.

Mrs. Dye concluded by restating the 1969 Crusade slogan, Help Yourself With a Checkup, Others With a Check.

Campsite Fees Upped by State

The State Conservation Department and the State Council of Parks and Outdoor Recreation announced today an increase in fees at all state operated campsites.

Camping fees at campsites under the jurisdiction of the Division of Lands and Forests and unimproved State Park areas will be increased from $1.50 to $2.00 per day. Fees at improved State Park areas where electrical service is provided will be raised from $2.00 to $2.50 per day. The daily rate for cruiser docks and tent platform sites on the state owned islands of Lake George will go from $1.75 to $2.50.

This is the first across the board rate increase for camping since 1964. There will be no fee increase at picnic or day use facilities during the summer season.

It was pointed out that the increases are in line with increased construction, maintenance and operation expenses.

Concern Shown Over Doctor Shortage

By SHANE CROSBY

Communities throughout Ulster and Dutchess are being forced to take action on their own as an "acute" doctor shortage in rural areas is being felt more and more.

From Dover Plains in Dutchess to Highland and nearer to the city of Kingston in Ulster, private groups and poverty assistance offices are seeking ways of luring general practice doctors into their areas to serve an ever growing number of patients.

Dr. Francis LoGalbo of Kingston, president of the Ulster County Medical Society, told The Freeman that there is an "acute" shortage of "GP" and internal medicine doctors in the county as well as most rural areas of the nation.

Specialized Fields

Dr. LoGalbo said that young doctors are moving into teaching and more specialized fields rather than in the "GP" area and said most new doctors "just don't like the idea of moving into a rural area" such as in Ulster-Dutchess counties.

The president said that the drafting of young doctors into the military does not seem to be the problem, saying that most are aware of their obligation and make arrangements.

He placed the city of Kingston in the "rural," a category of areas where doctors shy from setting up general practice.

The county society does not openly seek new doctors for the area, he said, adding that recruitment is not the proposal of the society that has approximately 150 members.

Communities of from 5,000 to 10,000, he said, are the hardest hit, and many are forming private groups to recruit medical help.

In Dutchess County, Gus Rhoades of the Office of Economic Opportunity station in Dover Plains, said his area is "hurting" for resident medical assistance on weekends.

Special

Rhoades said that persons in the Dover Plains community sometimes have to travel from 25 to 30 miles for medical help.

Rhoades, who works in poverty areas north and west of Poughkeepsie, said the doctor shortage is "desperate" throughout the "Harlem Valley" of rural northern Dutchess County.

His office conducted a "health-in" last year, where Rhoades said some 180 persons from the Dover Plains area came for medical check-ups. He said most of them would not have been seen by doctors had it not been for the two-day clinic.

The Sears Foundation, said Rhoades, published figures on the Dutchess County area he works in that show how 40 per cent of the persons in area hospitals would not have had to be admitted if they had proper out-patient assistance in the first place.

Impossible on Weekends

He said the area has a "desperate shortage of doctors and health centers," noting that it "is impossible to get a doctor on the weekends here." Transportation is another problem, he said. The people can not get to the doctors and the doctors do not seem to want to live in the rural communities.

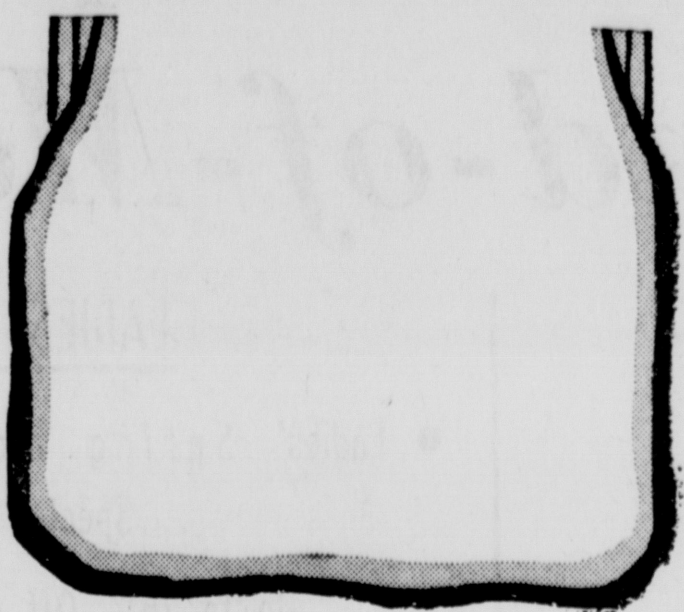

A well equipped health clinic with office and clean living quarters is a necessity Rhoades says must be obtained before doctors can be talked into moving to the "Harlem Valley."

In Highland, a group known as the Highland Medical Procurement Committee has been working for over a year, trying to induce general practice doctors into the Town of Lloyd.

Mrs. Jean Lombardo of the Highland Community Action Committee, said the shortage in that area is "severe." She said one area medical man is past retirement age and another "comes and goes" from offices in Dutchess County, stopping in the Highland area once a week.

She said the doctor shortage in Highland is made public by the committee, which is advertising in medical journals and major newspapers without apparent success.

Citing a recent case, Mrs. Lombardo said an 81-year-old man attempt to secure medical help, journals and newspapers and at one time had two doctors in the Highland area and she had to assist him to the Peter Romuleis, has sought public support in the form of money to pay for advertisements in emergency room of a Poughkeepsie hospital after a futile

NEEDED—DOCTORS TO HANDLE THIS BAG.

Several inquiries "We've had quite a few inquiries," Romuleis told a Freeman reporter recently. "but most of them were from specialists."

"What the area needs," he said, "is a number of good general practitioners."

The committee has also urged forming a local community health center to draw doctors.

More than 10,000 persons live in the Highland area with the two doctors serving them on almost "part-time" schedules.

On a national scale, the American Medical Association and other medical groups have been advancing the status of the General Practitioner. The doctor that once was associated with the horse and buggy days and the midnight calls to out of the way farm houses, has been given the status of specialist. A recent ruling of the nation's medical bodies made General Practice a specialty on a par with the some one dozen other areas of medicine that seem to draw the young medical graduates.

The fact that most young doctors prefer to practice in the cities, leaving rural residents without adequate nearby medical practice is accepted and is being combated in some areas. In the meantime, the ones who seem to be the least prepared to cope with an absence of doctors, the poorer rural residents, still are unaided and for the most part, go untreated.

For many on a fixed, low income without proper transportation and with a higher number of dependents, they sit and wait while concerned groups search the ranks of young doctors for help.

Road Rules For Minibike Users

KINGSTON

With the advent of warmer weather and the disappearance of snow on the pavement, it seems likely minibikes will come back into use.

County Clerk, Albert Spada

today reminded owners that these miniature, gasoline-powered bicycles are classed as motorcycles.

If ridden on public streets, sidewalks, highways or parking lots, they must be registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles and must bear registration plates.

The riders must possess either a junior motorcycle or motorcycle license. The county clerk also added.

pointed out that the minimum age to qualify for a license is 16.

A further requirement is that minibikes must be covered by automobile liability insurance in at least the minimum amounts of $10,000-$20,000 and $5,000.

There are no restrictions on operating minibikes on private property, but it is wise to obtain permission from the property owner first, the county clerk added.

Separate Jail, City Hall Urged in Federal Planning

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The mayor, in getting down to basics on his city hall plans has learned that federal authorities recommend separate police facilities and are willing to pay half the cost of construction if the city concurs.

The mayor, Raymond W. Garraghan, has met with the police chief, Francis J. Fagan, and both agree that separate facilities would be ideal, if feasible.

"With us, it's basically a question of security," Fagan told The Freeman. Fagan explained that if the police department, including jail cells, were a part of city hall, it would have to be virtually sealed off from the rest of the complex. "We don't like open corridors," Fagan said, "since we often have prisoners under custody in our area."

With Garraghan, it is basically a problem of money since he is trying to keep the cost of the proposed city hall in Broadway East "around $800,000."

According to the mayor, the money would be available under "Safe Streets" legislation passed by the federal government. On April 17 Garraghan wrote a letter to federal officials in New York City inquiring as to how the city can receive federal aid in the construction of its police facilities.

According to the mayor, the city could receive up to 50 per cent of the cost of construction if it qualifies.

Efforts are now being made to arrive at a construction figure, with the aid of state officials who are due in this week. Fagan said representatives of the State Division for Police Administration will be meeting with him and other Kingston officials in an effort to determine just what Kingston needs in the way of physical police facilities.

"These guys are the experts," Fagan said. "They'll come in and look over our operation as it now exists and make their recommendations. Of course, we have some pretty firm ideas on what we think we'll need in the future."

Last week, Garraghan sent Fagan and Architect Albert E. Milliken, who is designing the new Kingston city hall, to Rye and Ramapo to inspect the police departments in those communities. Both communities have separate police facilities which have been built in recent years.

There are still a number of details to work out, among them whether the city courtroom will be part of city hall or part of the police department facilities. Money is reportedly available under the Safe Streets program for an overall "justice facility" which would include the police department and the courtrooms.

If this separate police facilities plan is successful Garraghan would then have two options for city hall—either build a smaller city hall (at less cost) or use the additional space for general city use.

Garraghan appeared resigned to another delay in his city hall plans when he told The Freeman today. "I don't care how long it takes. We want a well-planned city hall at the least possible cost to the taxpayers."

Would you like to Save $10,000 to $15,000?

Do you know how? Buy a home that's heated by Oil.

It's that simple.

Buying a home that's heated by OIL is like putting money in the bank every year. Facts and figures show that OIL HEAT will save many home owners over $1,000 in just a few years, and over the length of a 25 year mortgage could easily run from $10,000 to $15,000. You save money and you get the best heating fuel there is — fuel that delivers dependable clean, healthy heat. What's more, you get all the hot water your family needs. That's because OIL produces hot water faster than your family will ever need it. In short, OIL HEAT gives you the best for less. Don't you think it's worth a telephone call to your neighborhood Oil Dealer for all the facts?

Legion Slates Open Meeting On SS Benefits

Thursday, April 24, at 8 p.m. the Rosendale-Tillson American Legion Post 1219 invites the public to attend an information meeting on Social Security at the Post Home and meeting hall in Tillson.

The program will consist of a talk of approximately 20 minutes followed by a question and answer period. A film will be shown. The Social Security law effect the lives of 9 out of 10 of all workers in America, and yet many are unaware of what the Social Security Program means to them and their families. In Ulster County alone, more than one and three quarter million dollars is distributed monthly to nearly 19,000 men, women and children.

The local district office of Social Security and the Rosendale-Tillson American Legion Post in honor of the Legion's 50th anniversary have joined together for this informative meeting on the benefits of Social Security.

Library Open House

In observance of National Library Week, the Rosendale Library will be open Thursday afternoon so that senior citizens of the town may visit the library. Refreshments will be served.

During the week overdue books may be returned without fine.

Ellenville Man Faces Charge on Firing Weapon

ELLENVILLE

Paul McKinney, of 3 Hickory Street, was scheduled to appear at 7 p. m. today before Village Police Justice Ronald Elias to face a charge of discharging a firearm within the village limits.

McKinney was released on $50 bail after his arrest Sunday night. Police said complaints were received at headquarters from residents at 11:40 p. m. Saturday reporting someone was shooting in the neighborhood.

An intensive investigation was conducted by police, and a warrant was issued by Judge Elias. Sergeant John Phillips arrested McKinney.

Teacher Parley Set Wednesday

The Classroom Teacher Committee of South Eastern Zone for NYSTA will hold a NEA Spring Conference at the Charter Oak Room of the Holiday Inn, Newburgh, on April 23 from 4:15 to 9:30 p.m. The highlight of the agenda will be guest speaker Thomas McLernon, director of the East Coast NEA. Two workshops, one related to Index Salary, conducted by Erwin Coons, Salary Consultant NEA, the other concerning negotiating fringe benefits—what and how, conducted by R. Thomas Crawford, Special Services Division NEA, are other interesting features of the conference.

Following the conference, dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. at which time NEA Director James A. Cullen will offer some NEA Convention Pointers. Teachers, administrators, and boards of education may attend.

Auxilians Plan Style-Show Lunch

Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary will hold its fourth annual luncheon and fashion show beginning at noon on May 12, it was announced by auxiliary president Mrs. Bernard Weinig.

Mrs. Weinig named Mrs. Harry Greenberg and Mrs. Benjamin Lonstein as co-chairmen of the event. The luncheon will again be held at the Fallsview Hotel in Ellenville.

The afternoon's highlights will include fashions and songs by Muriel King. Summer and fall clothes will be shown by several area models.

Last year's luncheon, featuring skits and a surprise audience participation event, drew more than 400 guests.

The festivities this year will include a donor award drawing. The winner will receive a hand made afghan donated by Miss Phyllis Hulbert.

Proceeds from the luncheon and the sale of donor award books will be used to purchase new equipment for the local voluntary non-profit hospital. Tickets are on sale for $6 per person.

Mrs. Greenberg said plans are proceeding on schedule and added that the auxiliaries expect a large attendance because "whatever benefits the hospital also benefits the entire community."

As a special incentive, a perfume-cologne set is being presented to each auxiliary who sells either 10 tickets to the luncheon or 25 donor award books.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting either Mrs. Jules Rosen or Mrs. Harry Rieger in Ellenville. Donor award books may be purchased by calling Mrs. Ceil Binder or Mrs. Sidney Binder, Ellenville.

Mrs. Louis Resnick is fund raising chairman for the hospital service organization.

Eighty home economists attended a dinner meeting at the Skytop Restaurant here last week to hear two outstanding speakers discuss image projection and how to help students in the grooming-personality areas.

Coordinator for the event was Mrs. Charlotte Hunt, home economics teacher at the J. Watson Bailey School, Kingston. Mrs. Hunt planned for the program for Area 15, New York State Education Department, Bureau of Home Economics.

Home Economics teachers and extension staff workers attended from Albany, Columbia, Dutchess, Putnam, Westchester, Orange and Rockland Counties. Area 15 is composed of three counties, Ulster, Greene and Sullivan.

Guest speakers for the occasion were Mrs. Stephanie Farrar, assistant professor at the Fashion Institute of Technology, New York; and Miss Ruth Tolman, author, lecturer and TV panelist.

Mrs. Farrar, who earned her masters in fashion merchandising at New York University, is a national authority on hair styling and is on the faculty of the Personal Development Institute, Fifth Avenue, New York, which conducts several teacher seminars annually. In her address, she stressed three words which teach clothing selection—Becoming, Appropriate, Fashionable.

She presented for viewing carefully "put-together" packages in contrast to well-ordinated, neat packaging.

With today's radical changes, Mrs. Farrar stated, and with young people imitating anything which momentarily intrigues them, teachers and other instructors are finding it more difficult to guide their students. Mrs. Farrar said fashion changes almost overnight particularly when a public idol appears in public wearing something previously considered inappropriate.

In deciding whether or not an outfit is becoming, the wearer should concentrate on color and design, the speaker said.

Whether or not an outfit or accessory is appropriate, Mrs. Farrar stated, is the yardstick by which to guide youth. The speaker concluded her talk with a demonstration of dressing up or down a basic dress with the latest in colorful scarfs.

Miss Tolman, who is author of "Beauty, Charm and Poise," and many other books and articles on personal development, gave a presentation of the aspects of basic posture and gestures as taught in her modeling classes. Color slides were used to show how simple hand placement can either add or detract from body proportions.

The need for proper diet as a beauty aid was stressed with the speaker emphasizing that nervousness, a contradiction to poise, even insanity, is often an end result of starved nerves.

In touching upon the modeling field, Miss Tolman said that future models may have to brave competition as stiff as that known by "Miss America" contestants.

They will have to have more "on the ball," she concluded. Mrs. Suzanne LeBlanc, president of the former organization of Ulster County Home Economists, introduced the speakers.

Also participating in the program were Mrs. Rita Mataraza, former area coordinator, who was in charge of the business meeting; Mrs. Anne Berg, former missionary to the Orient, who gave the invocation; and Mrs. Mary Wamsly, area coordinator from Dutchess, Columbia and Putnam Counties.

Secretaries Week Proclaimed

Peter J. Savago, Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, has officially proclaimed the week of April 20th-26th as Secretaries Week, with Wednesday, April 23, designated as Secretaries Day.

Stated Gloria Starling, Chapter president, "Although NSA officially sponsors Secretaries Week, observance is not limited to our members alone, but to all secretaries everywhere who are an indispensable and integral part of management's team in business, industry, education, the professions and government."

Special attention during Secretaries Week will be focused upon the Certified Professional Secretary Program, which provides certification to secretaries completing the examination successfully. There are more than 2,000 Certified Professional Secretaries, including eight men. The Colonial Valley Chapter has one

CPS; she is Mrs. Elsie Secor, CPS, of Ashokan.

Among the events to be sponsored by the local NSA Chapter during Secretaries Week, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Estelle Frascinella, will be a luncheon to be held on Saturday, April 26, at the Capri "400" in Port Ewen, at 12:30 p.m. All area secretaries are invited to attend. For reservations, contact Mrs. Anthony Frascinella, New Paltz.

Elizabeth McCord Weds John Hickey of White Plains

MRS. JOHN JOSEPH HICKEY
(Photo Workshop)

Miss Elizabeth Anne McCord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. McCord, 26 Roosevelt Avenue, Kingston, became the bride of John Joseph Hickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Hickey, 72 Alexander Avenue, White Plains, on Saturday, Apr. 19 in St. Joseph's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Patrick Reddan celebrated the Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, accompanied A. Donald Sweeney, who sang traditional wedding selections. Baskets of multi-colored spring flowers and palms decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a cream Florentine silk gown, fashioned with a molded bodice, short sleeves, and a V-neckline enhanced by a yoke of Alencon lace, embroidered with seed pearls. The gown was styled with a triple tiered skirt with circular chapel-length train.

Her headpiece was a waist-length ivory mantilla of Belgian lace and she carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Frank Bonavita, sister of the bride, Kingston, served as matron of honor. She wore a champagne colored sateen gown, styled with a cowl neck and an A-line skirt. A loden green ribbon around the empire waist, ending in a bow and streamer, detailed the back. A matching ribbon bow served as her headpiece and she carried a cascade of pompons, daisies, sweetheart roses and miniature carnations.

Mrs. Frank Allgaier, sister of the bride, White Plains, and Mrs. Edward Van Loan, sister of the bridegroom, Port Ewen, served as attendants. Their gowns and headpieces were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant. They also carried cascades of pompons, daisies, sweetheart roses and miniature carnations.

Vincent J. Hickey Jr., brother of the bridegroom, Yonkers, was best man. Ushers were Stephen Hickey, brother of the bridegroom, White Plains, and C. Allen McCord Jr., brother of the bride, Kingston.

After the wedding, a reception for 120 guests was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The bride is a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula and Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing. Prior to her marriage, she was employed by Francis LoGalbo, MD, Kingston.

Her husband is an alumnus of White Plains High School and served four years with the U.S. Navy. He is employed by New York Telephone Company, Mount Kisco.

When they return from their wedding trip to Ireland, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will reside at Carmel.

Athena Trataros Takes Marriage Vows

St. George's Greek Orthodox Church, Kingston, was the setting Sunday, Apr. 20, for the wedding of Miss Athena Trataros, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Trataros, Plainview Place, Bloomington, to George Vachtsevanos, 255 Fieldstone Terrace, Bronx, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vachtsevanos of Kozani, Greece.

The Rev. Nicholas Katsoulis officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Konstantine Tsigas of Dover, N. J. Mrs. Raymond Rignall, organist, accompanied Nickolas Kokkinis, soloist. Arrangements of lilies and gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long ivory gown of peau d'ange styled with Venetian lace appliques. A long cathedral train of matching fabric also featured lace appliques. A Venetian lace headpiece with appliques held a fingertip veil and the bride carried a nosegay of gladioli, white roses and stephanotis.

Anastasia Giatas of Bridgeport, Conn., cousin of the bridegroom, and Betty Theodore of New York City, cousin of the bride, were matron and maid of honor, respectively. They wore pink taffeta and chiffon gowns styled along empire line. The gowns featured long chiffon sleeves trimmed in ivory lace. Their matching headpieces held short veils and they carried nosegays of aqua and maize daisies.

Attendants were Dina Trataros, sister-in-law of the bride, Bloomington; Peggy Kyrtasous, Bridgeport, Conn.; Elaine Trataros, sister-in-law of the bride, Bloomington; and Suzanne Theodore, cousin of the bride, New York. The gowns were styled identically to those worn by the honor attendants with Dina and Peggy wearing aqua and carrying nosegays of pink, aqua and maize daisies, and Elaine and Suzanne wearing maize and carrying nosegays of pink, aqua and maize daisies. Each attendant wore a headpiece to match her gown.

Flower girls were Victoria, Fanny and Christine Trataros, nieces of the bride, all of Bloomington. Their gowns were fashioned identically to those of the attendants in pink, aqua and maize, respectively, and they carried baskets of pink, aqua and maize daisies.

Constantine Giatas, cousin of the bridegroom, of Bridgeport, Conn., was best man. Ushers were Christos Papadopoulos, cousin of the bridegroom, New York City; Paul Trataros, brother of the bride, Bloomington; Sterghios Kyrtasous, Bridgeport, Conn.; Stanley Trataros, brother of the bride, Bloomington; and Theodore Papadellis of New York City.

Tommy Giatas, cousin of the bridegroom, Bridgeport, Conn., was ringbearer.

A reception for 180 guests was given at William's Lake Hotel, Rosendale.

For her wedding trip to the Virgin Islands, the bride wore a pink and white linen dress and coat ensemble with an off-white orchid corsage.

The bride is the daughter of the president of Rosendale Food Center Inc. and Rosendale Shopping Center. She was awarded Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in French from State University College at New Paltz and is a French teacher at Kingston High School.

Her husband earned his BEE degree at City College of City University of New York, his MEE degree at New York University, and plans to receive his PhD in June from City College. He is a member of Tau Beta Pi, Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, the Professional Group on Automatic Control, and a scholar of the Anglo-American Hellenic Bureau of Education. He is teaching engineering at City College of City University at New York.

Mrs. Karabinos Heads Auxiliary

Mrs. George Karabinos was installed president of Ladies Elks Auxiliary No. 550 at the April 7 meeting held in the lodge rooms, Stuyvestant Hotel, Kingston. Elected to serve with her were Mrs. Charles Cozza, vice president; Mrs. Dewey Logan, secretary; Mrs. Anton Anthony Cruise, financial secretary; and Mrs. William Morris, treasurer. Installing officer was Mrs. Janet Brooks, a past president; Mrs. Joseph Oppenheimer, presided at the meeting.

Included in the business discussion was the annual banquet which will take place Tuesday, May 6, at Governor Clinton Hotel. Cocktail hour will be from 6 to 7 p.m. with dinner at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Janet Brooks and Mrs. Leo Bigler are co-chairman of the event. All members will be notified by mail as to particulars.

Due to the early date of the banquet, the usual May meeting will be eliminated. A report was submitted by the auditing committee which included the Mmes. Alfred Buchanan, Wesley Cramer and John Berinato.

Committees appointed by Mrs. Karabinos are Mrs. Anthony Cruise, membership; Mrs. Dewey Logan, sick and flowers; Mrs. Christopher Roche, chaplain; Mrs. Joseph Oppenheimer, publicity; and Mrs. Harold Hoornbeck, sentinel.

New members welcomed by the auxiliary were Mrs. Edward Fleming and Mrs. Ann Mitchell.

Refreshments were served by the Mmes. John Wooley, Janet Brooks, and Anthony Cruise, after which a social hour was held.

Nuptial Vows Are Taken

St. Catherine Labouré Church, Lake Katrine, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Chandra Ann Zammillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Zammillo, 139 Harwich Street, Kingston, and Kenneth E. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Wood, Box 5, Malden, on Sunday, Apr. 6.

The Rev. Paul V. Sullivan officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, accompanied Donald Sweeney, soloist. The church was decorated with Easter lilies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of linen shantung in Empire style, trimmed with appliques of Swiss lace. The lace bordered train was chapel length and she wore a stylized headpiece of tulle leaves, edged with seed pearls to which was shirred her silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations and English ivy with pink tea roses scattered throughout the bouquet.

Miss Kathy West, Second Street, Connelly, served as maid of honor. She wore an empire style, A-line gown of azalea pink with self-fabric ruffles at the neck and hemline and a matching Dior bow in her hair. She carried a basket of multi-colored daisies with multi-colored streamers. Miss Dawn Keil, Red Hook, and Miss Barbara Wells, Pawling, were attendants. Their gowns and headpieces were styled identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried baskets of multi-colored daisies with multi-colored streamers.

Robert Ritacco, Roslyn, L. I., was best man. Thomas Westorp and Lt. Allen Gardner, both of Saugerties, served as ushers.

A reception for 90 guests was held at the Alpine, Rosendale.

The bride wore a green and yellow plaid dress with brown patent accessories and a corsage of pale yellow sweetheart roses for her traveling ensemble.

Mrs. Kood is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School and attended Albany Business College. She is employed by the Kingston City School District.

Her husband is a graduate of Saugerties High School, Class of 1965. He attends Clarkson College of Technology in Potsdam, where he is a member of Beta Tau fraternity.

A Myth that Small Savings Don't Count

Clifford A. Henze
President
Kingston Savings Bank

In our work we hear all kinds of excuses that people come up with to explain why they can't save. Their repetition has prompted us to make our own informal compilation of what we call Thrift Myths.

A lot of people in this country are at work supplying us with material. It may come as a surprise to learn that 35% of U.S. families have no savings, many of them with earnings sufficient to encourage nest eggs.

One-tenth of American families, for example, earning $10,000 or more a year have no savings. This is also true of one-fourth of those in the $7,500-9,999 income group.

This large segment of our society is abetted by many more Americans who do save but who apologize for their inability to save more by recourse to one of the Thrift Myths. As, for instance, this one:

Small savings aren't worth worrying about.

This fallacy represents the difference between success and failure in business, where profit and loss hinge upon price differentials of a few cents in every dollar.

Families are less alert to such niceties. But consider how they add up. Food now accounts for about 19% of family expenses, which means that a family earning $10,000 spends about $1,900 for food.

The range in food prices without sacrifice of quality can be substantial. A gallon of milk will have a 25% to 30% variation in price in a single community. Meat prices are susceptible to wide ranges.

Thus it can be seen that attention to "small savings" in food purchases can easily mean 10%—a couple of hundred dollars from a $1,900 annual budget—for the family nest egg.

Even more meaningful would be a bit of attention to the family's use of installment credit. Almost half of U.S. families owe such credit. Almost one-fourth of their annual income is tied up in installment payments.

Let's take one of these families earning $10,000 per year and assume that one-fourth, or $2,500, is committed to installment credit. If the price for the use of this money is only 20% (a modest figure!), the family is expending $500 annually just for interest and carrying charges.

Here is another $500 in "small savings" that could go toward bolstering the family's financial independence.

Whether the savings are in small amounts or large, at Kingston Savings Bank's 5% annual rate, compounded four times a year, your money doubles in 14 years. After 20 years you have $270 for every $100 originally deposited.

Crafts Exhibit Now At Artcraft Here

The Crosswinds Cottage Crafts of Hurley now has its fifth annual exhibit in the window and gallery of the Artcraft Camera Center, 694 Broadway, concluding Sunday, April 27.

This year, because of the number of people participating in classes, the main part of the exhibit will be in the Artcraft Camera gallery which will be open from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Also, demonstrations of various "cottage" crafts will be given each evening by students from 7-9 p.m.

Students participating in the show include Joan Alward, Merrie Boening, Terry Thomas, Valerie Beardsley, Justine Thomas, Helen Meurs, Rhet Marmo, Pat Smith, Mary Louise Evans, Sheila Hadley, Katie Murphy, Becky Warren, Lorna Smedman, and Debbie Snyder.

Due to an ever increasing demand for an even more diversified program, the name "Hurley Craft Guild," has been changed to "Crosswinds Cottage Crafts" to better depict the continuing development of the program offered since its inception under the original name in 1964.

Mrs. John Valentine, a member of the American Craftsman's Guild, is the instructor for the adult and boys' classes and Mrs. Ralph Niles of New Paltz is the instructor for the girls. Classes will resume in October and anyone interested may register at the exhibit.

Named Award Winner

One of the objectives of The National Secretaries Association (International) is to elevate the standards of secretarial performance. In addition, the association encourages those who will be the secretaries of tomorrow. In line with this, each year, the local chapter, The Colonial Valley Chapter, offers a student incentive award as part of its educational program.

Miss Lillian M. Styles, education chairman for the local chapter, announced that this year's award will be made to a freshman, Executive Secretarial major from Ulster County Community College. The recipient will be Miss Phyllis Breithaupt.

Miss Breithaupt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Breithaupt Jr. of West Bridge Street, Saugerties. She is a graduate of Saugerties High School, where she earned a Scholar's Incentive Award, presently enrolled in the two-year Executive Secretarial program at UCCC. Miss Breithaupt plans a career as a secretary. She is employed part-time in the office of Dr. Herman R. Ash of Saugerties.

PHYLLIS BREITHAUPT

The award will be presented to Miss Breithaupt at the Secretaries Week luncheon which will be held on Saturday, April 26, at The Capri "400" in Port Ewen.

Sawyers Thump KHS, 8-2

KINGSTON — The Sawyers led 3-2 going into the top of the seventh inning when the roof fell in on the Maroons. Meanwhile, Mike Turek and Bruce Wolsen combined for a nifty 5-hitter to hand Coach Mike Rienzo's

Maroons their second loss in three starts. Three walks, an error and infield out produced three Sawgerties runs with one out to launch the rally. Bruce Gilligan relieved Pete Helmich. Greg Rios, who was Kingston's starting pitcher, booted a ground ball and John Berardi dropped a throw at the plate for another run. Berardi was ejected from the game for protesting Umpire Ren Clark's call at the plate. Gilligan then fanned the next two men to close out the disastrous inning.

Sawgerties scored an unearned run in the second when Gerry Malgieri rapped a two-out single, stole second and came home on an error by Vince Gorman.

Kingston moved ahead 2-1 in its half when a walk, bunt single and error by Benter loaded the bases. Harry Lyons singled home one run and the other scored when second baseman Dave Smith dropped

A wild pitch with the bases loaded by reliever Pete Helmich gave Sawgerties a pair of gift runs in the sixth. Helmich came in relief of Rios with the sacks jammed and promptly uncorked the wild pitch.

There were no extra basers in the game. Berardi of Kingston and Tom Greco of the Sawyers slammed two singles each.

Kingston again failed to hit with runners in scoring position. "We're plagued by the same old trouble," said Coach Mike Rienzo. "We just don't hit when it counts." He might have added fielding, too, at least for yesterday.

The Maroons host traditional rival, Poughkeepsie High, Wednesday at Dietz.

New Paltz Stops Marlboro, 2-1

NEW PALTZ

Trailing 1-0, New Paltz High scored solo runs in both the sixth and seventh innings to down Marlboro High, 2-1.

The Victory gave New Paltz a perfect 2-0 UCL record and left the defending champs with a 1-1 record.

It all started when lead off pinch-hitter Rick McCord singled, Joe Williams then pinch-running for McCord stole second and came home on Bill Schiller's pinch-hit double to tie the score 1-1.

In the bottom of the seventh Harold Anderson drilled a single to start things off. He stole second and went to third on Tony Zagorini's grounder to first.

Daune Barr then bunted up the third base line to score Anderson easily on the suicide squeeze.

The two teams had played to a deadlock Friday 2-2, and the game had to be called due to darkness.

Ray Zappone now 2-0 for the season has run his strikeouts to 13 in 21 innings.

Japanese In New Shoes Wins Boston Marathon

BOSTON (UPI)—Yoshiaki Unetani of Japan broke in a new pair of racing shoes the hard way: by running the 73rd annual BAA Marathon in record time.

The 24-year-old physical education teacher from Hiroshima sped over the 26 mile, 385-yard Hopkinton-to-Boston course Monday in 2 hours, 13 minutes and 49 seconds.

His time was 1 minute and 56 seconds better than the old mark set in 1967 by Dave McKenzie of New Zealand.

Pablo Garrivo of Mexico crossed the finish line at the Prudential Center 3 minutes and 41 seconds behind Unetani. Alfredo Penaloza of Mexico was third at 2:19:56.

"I'm very happy," said Unetani, for whom the Boston Marathon was the first victory in five years of long distance running. He had several second-place finishes prior to the annual Patriots Day classic in Massachusetts.

Unetani, son of a druggist, wore a new pair of running shoes for the hilly race and he had blisters on the toes of both feet before the event was ended.

"My feet hurt some," the 5-foot-8, 135-pound runner told newsmen through an interpreter. However, he said, "I don't feel too tired."

Unetani found the sunny, 50-degree weather "just right," as did thousands of persons who lined the course to watch the record field of 1,152 plover the winding course from the picturesque suburbs to downtown Boston.

Garrivo, one of three Mexicans who entered the race, said he was feeling poorly Sunday and "after 20 miles I had no speed left."

Penaloza and Garrivo had finished third and fourth in the 1968 marathon.

Defending champion Amby Burfoot, 22-year-old school teacher from Groton Long Point, Conn., finished 17th in 2:29:50.

Burfoot, who was a Wesleyan University senior when he won last year, said, "I felt fine. I'm just not in shape."

Ron Daws of the Twin Cities Track Club of Minnesota came in fourth, the first U.S. entry to cross the finish line. He was 27 seconds behind Penaloza.

Unetani led at all six check points along the route and clocked record times at each location. It became apparent early in the race that a record might be in the making when he chopped 50 seconds off the old 33-minute, 56-second mark at Framingham, 7 miles from the starting line.

The other top 10 finishers were Robert Moore of Toronto, 2:21:28; Robert Deines, 21, of Pasadena, Calif., and Occidental College, 2:22:49; Jose Garcia Gaspar of Mexico, 2:23:16; Pat McMahon, 27, of Liscanoor, Ireland, and the BAA, 2:23:24; Phil Hampton of the Royal Navy, 2:23:46 and Penti Rumakko, 25, of Hanekoski, Finland, 2:24:14.

Bergen Blanks UCCCC

TEANECK, N. J.—homestanding Bergen Community College here on a cold, windy Monday afternoon.

Ulster County Community College's baseball team returns to the friendly confines of its home park-Dietz Stadium— tonight in pursuit of the elusive baseball in the clutch.

They managed six hits but a nary a run enroute to a 3-0 shutout at the hands of the hope to even it up against Orange CCC of Middletown tonight.

Every Ulster error proved costly, as Bergen scored a single run in three different innings, each one tainted. In the second inning, Don Pawson, Bergen's cleanup hitter, was safe on a two-base error by third baseman Jeff Perry and scored on John Meyer's double.

Again in the fourth, Ernie Windfuhr reached first on Mike Derrenbacher's miscue, stole second, proceeded to third on the wild throw and scored on Lou Tedesco's fly to left.

A squeeze bunt accounted for Bergen's other tally in the seventh, after Larry Trippodo's second wild throw set it up.

"We've been getting good pitching, but outbaiting has been spotty and fielding the same," said Coach Al DiBernardo. "Maybe we can find the answers against Orange tonight."

Table Quarter Horse Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Prospects appeared favorable in the legislature for passage today of a measure to legalize betting on quarter-horse racing.

The bill fell only four votes short of the needed 76 votes for approval Monday in the 150-member Assembly before its sponsor asked that it be tabled, or laid aside pending further action.

Assemblyman Clarence Lane, R-Windham, noted that 12 Assemblymen were absent from the Monday session and some of them were expected to provide the needed votes.

The bill highlighted a day in which lawmakers worked to clear their desks of bills in the waning days of the session.

The quarter-horse bill would create a State Quarter Horse Commission, which could authorize racing at as many as five new tracks.

The second part of the measure, Lane said, would help harness tracks to improve facilities and thus attract customers.

Assemblyman Charles Stockmeister, D-Rochester, contended that the bill would be the opening wedge for legislation creating dog-racing and other forms of gambling.

"I don't think we should get into more areas of gambling," he said.

Quarter horses, popular in the Southwest, are named because of their ability to sprint the quarter mile in 21 or 22 seconds.

Trevino and Snead Golfers With Foot in Hazard

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Move over Sam and make room for Lee Trevino. Trevino, current U.S. Open champion and comparatively new to the "star" racket, put one foot in a hot water hazard last week with some choice remarks about the revered Masters championship golf course and his inability to play it well.

Like Sam Snead many years before him, the ebullient Trevino discovered that rapping one of the noble institutions of golf is only slightly less offensive to some people than trampling an American flag.

Unlike Snead, Lee apologized and presumably will live happily ever after whether he plays the Masters again or not.

As long as golf is played,

golfers are going to moan about golf courses. The great players — like great race horses — are supposed to handle all distances and all conditions but that doesn't mean they have to like it all.

Trevino's "sin," if any, is paltry compared to Snead's when Sam returned from Scotland after winning the 1946 British Open.

The Slammer took on the most holy place of all — the cradle of golf at St. Andrews. The historic old course is the Mecca of golf, visited by the lucky ones who are able to worship at the shrine.

"It's a freak," said Snead in his opening remarks to newsmen who had been invited to do all the eavesdropping they wanted to.

Fred Corcoran, Snead's friend and business agent, turned ashen. He lifted a hand as if to stop his wayward boy. Snead wouldn't budge.

"It's a freak, Fred, and that's all there is to it."

Well, of course it's a freak but nobody else had the courage or lack of respect or whatever it took to say so.

When the old course was laid out by the seaside, it consisted of only a few holes that faithfully followed the shoreline. After a player went "out," he played his way "in" using the same fairways and greens in reverse order.

The thrifty Scots regarded this as an ideal space — saving arrangement until the inevitable occurred. As more people took up the game, a dangerous aspect developed. Suddenly there was two-way traffic on what should have been a one-way street.

When the first players to tee off in the morning turned around to come back, they found themselves hitting directly into later starters and vice versa.

So the existing greens were enlarged up to 200 feet wide and a hole placed at either end. Fairways also were widened. Thereupon traffic proceeded in a more orderly and safer manner. It's still proceeding some two centuries after the first holes were laid out.

Double greens still are shared at the 2nd and 16th holes, 3rd and 15th, 4th and 14th, 5th and 13th, 6th and 12th, 7th and 11th, 8th and 10th. Only the first, 9th, 17th and 18th have greens all to themselves.

SAM SNEAD

Freak? Certainly. You're just not supposed to say so out loud if you're a famous star like Snead. Still, Sam got away with it and he never did apologize.

So now Trevino is on the record with what he says he believed was an off the record remark about the Augusta National course where the Masters is played. He insists it's not suited to his style of play.

There's absolutely nothing wrong with that. He's also entitled to his theory that newsmen should be barred from locker rooms to insure the privacy of the players.

There's only one thing. When glamorous stars become inaccessible, they can get their names in the papers only one way — by winning. And nobody wins 'em all.

Frazier Is Solid Pick Over Zgy

HOUSTON (UPI)—Unbeaten Joe Frazier puts his share of the world heavyweight boxing championship on the line tonight against rugged, but unpolished Dave Zygiewicz. Frazier is a decided favorite to make short work of the challenger.

Frazier, recognized as champion in six states and two foreign countries, is so sure of having his way with Zygiewicz that he is already considering a June fight with Jerry Quarry that could bring him a half million dollars.

The fighters weigh in at 1 p.m. EST, and will have at each other over a scheduled 15 rounds beginning at 9:50 p.m. EST.

The fight is expected to bring in a near-capacity crowd at the 12,000-seat Sam Houston Coliseum. The gate is forecast to come to $150,000. Frazier will get 40 per cent of that and Zygiewicz 20 per cent.

The fighters will get the same percentage of the money gained from a 20-city television hookup.

UCCCC Golfers Score

TEANECK, N. J. Dave Blakely, the team's No. 1 player, fired a one-over-par 37 to pace Ulster County Community College to an easy 210-279 victory over Bergen Community College swingers in an abbreviated nine-hole match at Overpeck Bergen County Golf Course here.

The match was curtailed at the halfway mark because of the overcrowded condition of the public course and poor weather.

Blakely carded a birdie and four pars on the 3084-yard layout on extremely cold and windy conditions. He missed birdie putts on the first, 8th and 9th holes, while bogeying the short 120-yard par three third and the 443-yard par four 6th.

Jevin Capalbo from Pawling High posted a 41 in the No. 2 slot for the New York team. Danny Powell of Hunter-Tannersville High carded a 43, as did Ray Lindhorst.

Ed Bardua also from Pawling High posted a 46 in the No. 4 spot.

Coach Mike Perry was quite satisfied with the team's opening effort, especially in view of the extremely difficult conditions of a wet course and cold weather. "Blakely was his usual consistent self and Ray Lindhorst was surprisingly impressive," said Perry. "He appears to be a topnotch prospect."

"We could surprise some teams with this freshmen group," Perry added.

Ulster was scheduled to host undefeated Orange (5-0) today at Wiltwyck Country Club.

The results:

Ulster (210) — Dave Blakely 37, Kevin Capalbo 41, Dan Powell 43, Ed Bardua 46, Ray Lindhorst 43.

Bergen (279)—Frank Iacovelli 45, Ed Garrison 48, Mard Adler 69, Don Mucci 52, Jim Minaya 65.

McLain About Harrelson: Would Do It Differently

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Denny McLain is a close friend of Kenny Harrelson's but he'd do it differently.

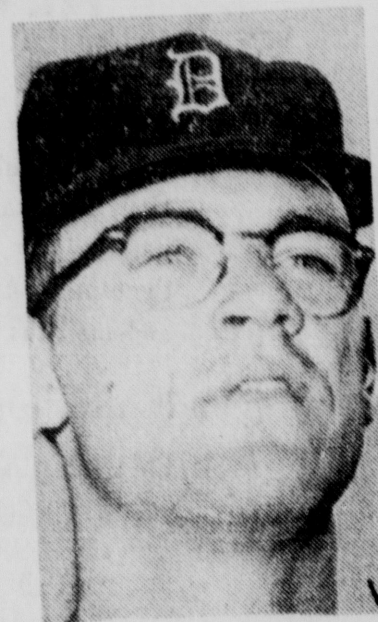

If and when the time comes that Detroit tells him, "Get that twin engine of yours warmed up, Denny, we've just dealt you to the Mets," he's going to warm up his Cessna, check the weather over Long Island and take off for Shea Stadium.

Not that the Tigers have any immediate thought of peddling their celebrated organ-playing, sky-writing 31-game winner, but a guy never knows and when McLain heard about the six-man deal in which Harrelson was consigned to Cleveland he realized the same thing could happen to him sometime.

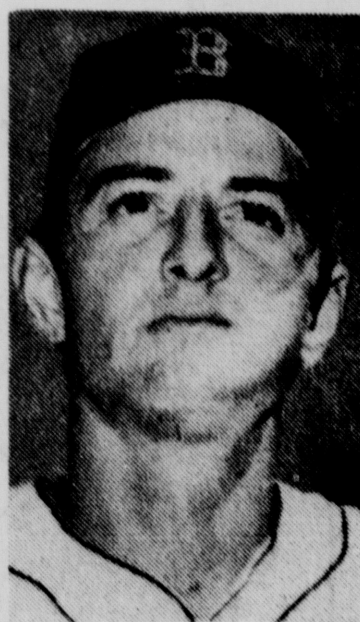

"I like Kenny. I think he's a helluva guy and I can imagine what he's going through now," McLain said when news of Harrelson's retirement and announcement in Boston reached Yankee Stadium Sunday.

"My situation is different than his. He has a lot of business ties in Boston; I made sure not to get myself involved like that in Detroit. Purposely. For this very reason. It's true I've been associated with many outside ventures...did you know I'm president of a firm now, yeah, Dyco Coverings Paint...but if I ever have to leave Detroit I have nothing to hold me there. I gotta say I was surprised Boston traded Kenny. How can they trade a guy who knocks in 100 runs?"

Easy. They traded guys like

DENNY McLAIN

KEN HARRELSON

Rogers Hornsby and Dizzy Dean who wound up in the Hall of Fame. And how about Roger Maris? Everybody remembers what he did, and they traded him, too.

"But Harrelson is different," McLain argued. "He carried their ball club all year. I don't see how they can trade him."

"The Red Sox need pitching now, especially with Lomborg and Santiago hurting," a guy said. "They must figure they've got enough hitting. Billy Conigliaro looks like he can play."

"Billy Conigliaro may turn out to be the greatest hitter in history but two home runs don't make him that," Denny McLain said, still defending his buddy, Hawk Harrelson.

"Can you ever imagine them trading you?" someone said to McLain.

"Why not?" replied the sandy-haired, 25-year-old right-hander.

"If they came in now and told you pack up, you've just been traded, you'd go?"

"No question. I'm no sacred cow. Naturally, I'd like to stay in the town I started in. Who wouldn't? I've got a lot of friends in Detroit. Jim Campbell (the Tigers' general manager) is another reason. He has done more for me than any 10 men I know. He always steered me right and kept me out of trouble several times. Not big trouble, little trouble, but I appreciate it. I have no illusions about where I stand though. Winning 31 games doesn't give you a lifetime guarantee. I'm not the most loved person in Detroit, you know. That's because I voiced my honest opinion. Look, if I think I'm right and they tell me to shut up, I'm not gonna shut up. It wouldn't matter to me where I was, I'd speak up. Even in Paradise. If they want to trade me for that, there isn't anything I can do about it."

McLain, who was beaten, 2-0, by the Yankees in Sunday's nightcap and whose record stands at 2-2, gets a kick out of people who keep asking him how many games he thinks he can win this year.

"If you start 40 times a year, you should be able to walk into 20 wins with this ball club," he says. "The way they score runs there's no telling how many you can win. A guy came up to me the other day and said 'do you think you can win 30 again?' I told him damn right I can with the kind of hitters we've got. They're the best there is."

McLain isn't really worried about it but Campbell says he hasn't had a single trade inquiry about him in the past year and never even has given it a thought.

Campbell adds this is no lifetime guarantee, of course.

Denny McLain smiles at that. He knows there won't be any for him even if he wins 31 again.

But he still wonders how Boston could do a thing like that to his buddy, Ken Harrelson.

Queen Elizabeth II Sails On Maiden Voyage Today

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI)—Britain quietly wished the Queen Elizabeth II a trouble-free maiden voyage today.

There were no royal presence, no band, no pomp and circumstance on the Cunard Line docks for the sailing of the sister successor to the vintage Queens Mary and Elizabeth, now in retirement.

The ship was due to sail at 10:45 a.m. EST.

Little fanfare

The lack of fanfare for the voyage, and eight-day cruise to Las Palmas and Portugal, did not indicate a lack of pride and joy in the British Isles. It merely meant everyone was saving their hullabaloo for the Queen's first transatlantic voyage, May 2.

This seafaring nation hopes the "mobile hotel" will allow Britain once more to rule at least the luxury liner waves, and American patronage is of prime concern.

Parliament loaned Cunard $42 million to build the 65,863 ton

Engineers said they had made "perfect" engines that had vibrated so violently on a test cruise at Christmas they snapped off propellers.

Cunard ordered today's departure only to recoup some of the losses it suffered due to those engine delays causing the cancellation of $7 million transatlantic business.

First Samplers

For today's voyage, 1,350 guests were paying from $396 to $3,600 for the privilege of being the first to sample the nine bars, the Turkish bath, the art gallery, the discotheques, the boutiques, the string quartet, pop group and other features of what Cunard calls a floating resort.

About 50 berths were not sold, although Cunard said it could have sold all the space three times over. The space was reserved for engineers, checking once more that the humiliating engine faults have been corrected.

The engineers went tourist class. The 963-foot ship has only two classes—the best is first class—compared with the caste system of older Cunard liners.

Gone, is the fat Cunard funnel to match her lines. She is lighter and, unlike the older queens, can make it through both the Suez and Panama canals.

Jury Deliberations Resumed On Life-Death Fate of Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jurors weary from a three and one-half month trial went back into a locked room today still undecided whether Sirhan B. Sirhan should pay with his life for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

After finding the Arab immigrant guilty of first degree murder, the seven-man, five-woman jury still could not reach a quick decision whether Sirhan should get death in the gas chamber or life in prison. Deliberations were to be resumed early today. The penalty phase of the trial went to the jury at noon Monday and they argued the remainder of the afternoon before retiring to their locked hotel rooms.

With Sirhan chewing stolidly on a wad of gum, the prosecution and defense eloquently pleaded for execution or life in a hushed courtroom that has been a virtual fortress.

Deputy Dist. Atty. John Howard said Sirhan would regard life imprisonment as another triumph and would be boast about killing Kennedy and

New Red Czech Leader Goes to Moscow Today

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist party chief, Gustav Husak, went to Moscow today, and his party's reform faction hoped he would return with some Soviet concessions.

Husak was welcomed at Moscow airport by Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin, President Nikolai Podgorny and other top officials. This red carpet treatment indicated the Kremlin's pleasure that the pro-Moscow Husak had replaced Alexander Dubcek.

Husak formally took over the party controls Monday from the reform leader and left Prague a few hours later to attend a summit meeting of Comecon, the Soviet bloc economic organization.

The Prague reformists hope that Husak's energetic efforts to please the Kremlin will result in Soviet approval of a substantial credit in dollars or some other convertible currency to help Czechoslovakia ease its economic troubles.

They also hope Moscow can be persuaded to cease publication of Zpravdy, the Czech-language propaganda sheet which the Soviet occupation troops distribute. It is particularly hated by Czechoslovak students and other militants.

Though they realize there is little chance the occupation force will be withdrawn this year, the reformists are hopeful the Kremlin can be persuaded to move its troops to more isolated areas for the summer. Some of the garrisons now stationed in small towns around the country are a constant source of friction.

Communist sources in Moscow said the chief topic of discussion between Brezhnev and Husak was expected to be Husak's plans to strengthen party control over Czechoslovak life, as demanded by Moscow.

Before his departure, Husak sent a message to Brezhnev saying the Czechoslovak party "is firmly determined to continue in the policy" of reforms launched last year before the Soviet invasion. "I am personally glad to have found the full understanding and support of the Communist party of the Soviet Union and of you personally in these efforts," Husak added.

Concert, Exhibits Slated at Red Hook

RED HOOK include a competitive play-off of Latin American instrumental groups from the general music classes. The audience will help in selecting the winners. Student soloists for the concert are Carol Dadds, flute; Elizabeth Montross, tenor saxophone; Ann Oja, bass clarinet; Robert Hapeman, cornet; and Chris Griffin, alto saxophone.

Special displays will include an art exhibit, supervised by Mrs. Lila Cruse; a home economics exhibit, supervised by Miss Millie Sheldon; and an industrial arts exhibit under the supervision of Joseph Barnes and Ernie Sevinsky.

The mixed chorus directed by Miss Patricia Williams will present a varied group of selections including show tunes, folk songs, sacred and secular concert music. Martin Tirsch will direct the concert band in an extensive program including: Tango Triste, Symphonette for Band, and Three Songs of Colonial America.

Whale Disposal Creates Problem For Navy Brass

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI)—It was a good idea, everyone agreed. It just didn't work.

A 33-foot whale washed ashore last week and died. Authorities called in the Navy to dispose of the carcass. That's when one of the men in blue had a mental flash.

Why not stuff the whale with dynamite, tow it out to sea and blast it to smithereens?

The project was carried out Sunday, except that the 120 pounds of dynamite in the mammal failed to explode. The whale drifted away and disappeared in overcast seas a wayward mine. Not since Mohy Dick was a whale more sought after.

Sunday night, to the collective sighs of Navy brass, the whale washed ashore on a desolate beach just north of the North Carolina line.

This time the Navy wasn't open to suggestions. A demolition team removed the dynamite from the mammal Monday.

The hulk was left on the beach.

'Spoon River' - Artful Hour

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Although sharply truncated, CBS-TV's Monday night production of "Spoon River," adapted from the classic free verse volume by Edgar Lee Masters, was a lovely and artful hour.

The recollections and views by persons buried in a cemetery in a mythical small town in southern Illinois were acted splendidly by Charles Aidman, Jason Robards, Jennifer West and Joyce Van Patten.

This quartet, plus the delightful folksinging by Naomi Caryl, Hirschhorn and Hal Lynch, brought a special poignance, a rare flavor of Americana and a frequently earthy humor to the long awaited video production.

As with the stage version of "Spoon River," the driving force behind the television production was Aidman, who not only starred in it but adapted and directed it also.

It was Aidman and Miss Van Patten who produced the dramatized version of Masters' "Spoon River Anthology" while members of the Theater West Workshop in Los Angeles.

Under the name "Spoon River," the play—basically a collection of acted-out readings—then moved to Broadway, where it was a critical hit in 1963-64.

Masters, who died in 1950 at the age of 82, was a lawyer who

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

One bizarre architectural style among many in 19th-century America was Orson Squire Fowler's octagonal house. The World Almanac says, Fowler, a fervent phrenologist most of the time, wrote in "A Home for All" (1853) that eight-sided houses offer more usable space and more sunlight than four-sided houses.

In Ellenville UR Project Board Will Take Vigorous Role

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

ELLENVILLE

At a regular meeting Monday night the Ellenville Village Board committed itself to a more vigorous role in the municipal urban renewal project after members of the board, led by Mayor Robert Dowling, indicated that federal funds may be withdrawn if positive action is not begun.

The board also approved a slightly revised draft of the 1969-70 village budget, issued a letter of commendation to the chief of Ellenville Fire Department, listened to grievances from local residents, and talked about a variety of issues from sanitation to stray shopping carts.

The discussion about the urban renewal project ensued after a resident in the gallery asked the member of the board about the outcome of a recent meeting of the Urban Renewal Board.

Mayor Dowling, who chaired the meeting, said that the village authorities were advised to "speed up the acquisition part of the project" by a representative from the Housing and Urban Development Agency (HUD) of the federal government.

Hiring Relocation Expert

Dowling said that the Village

Board intended to do all it could to proceed in earnest and announced that the village was hiring a relocation expert and possibly other personnel for project.

He also said that he wanted to bring more people into the program through recruitment and public hearings.

Trustee Riven Krieger, also registered his concern over the possible de-funding of the project. He noted that the board had received a letter from HUD in April of 1968 inferring that Ellenville may be phased out of urban renewal if it did not acquire and rehabilitate or demolish condemned properties.

Ellenville's Urban Renewal Director, John O'Connor, outlined many elements of the proposed project.

He noted that more than two million dollars (three fourths provided by the federal government and one fourth shared equally by the Village and State) has been allocated for the project.

O'Connor said that these funds were to be spent in part, on rehabilitating approximately 85 residential and commercial properties and demolishing approximately another 240.

To do this, O'Connor said that where property can be rehabilitated residents will be given grants of up to $3,000.00 and 3 per cent loans to finance the development. He noted that if relocation were involved the residents would be assured a clean and safe place to live.

After the lengthy discussion on the urban renewal project was concluded and a resolution committing the Board to action was passed the Board quickly considered approval of the new operating budget. The budget was aired at length at a public hearing last week.

Reduced Budget

The budget, which was submitted to the board by Village Manager, Paul Boucher, was slightly reduced from the original fiscal program. There was also a corresponding reduction in the property tax assessment. The total appropriations were reduced more than $3,000.00 and the proposed $3.09 per $1,000.00 assessed property increase in the property tax was cut back to $2.85.

Boucher indicated that the cuts were made in the areas of new equipment, and the Street and Police Departments.

The only protest about the budget was regarding the $2,000.00 salary increase designated for Police Justice, Ronald Elias. Frank Snyder, a resident of Ellenville, questioned the advisability of such a sizeable increase.

Ironically, at last week's budget hearing several residents protested because they did not think that Justice Elias was getting enough of a salary increase.

The Village Board took up three items relating to the Ellenville Police Department.

Will Buy Police Vehicle

They voted to purchase a Chevrolet station wagon for $2,983 to use for a police vehicle, discussed the possible purchase of a police radar car, and watched approvingly as an Ellenville police officer modeled a new uniform.

The board also discussed the progress of clean-up week, which will conclude this Friday, various violations of sanitation ordinances, and the growing nuisance of stray shopping carts about town.

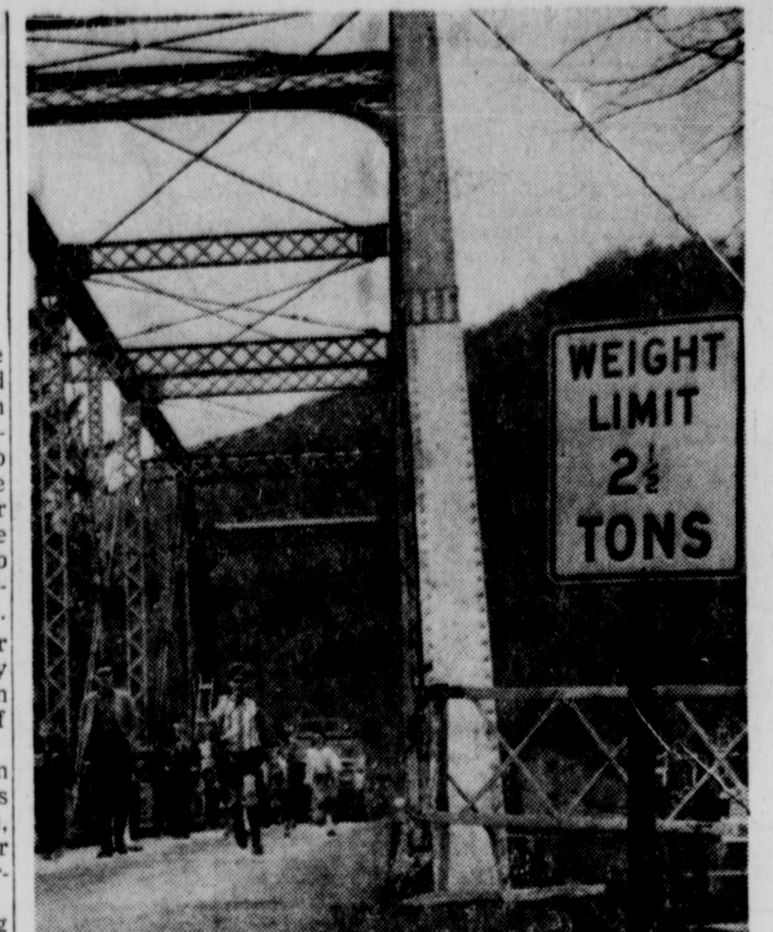

Mayor Dowling noted that the village had recently collected more than $400 in fines from local supermarkets for confiscated shopping carts picked up around the village and the board decided that to further pursue enforcement of the ordinance, village residents who remove carts from super market parking lots will be fined.

Mayor Dowling, speaking for the board also bestowed a very warm letter of commendation upon Ellenville Fire Chief George Garrison.

The commendation stated in part, "service such as yours does not come easy to any man, it is service that has called for sacrifice, learning, and leadership."

Shortly before the meeting adjourned the Board was presented with an American flag by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith.

The flag was donated by the Smiths in honor of their sons in the service to replace the somewhat worn flag now displayed in Liberty Square.

BUS FOLLOWS STUDENTS — For safety's sake — Red-bank Valley students walk across the Putneyville Bridge in Pennsylvania, followed by their school bus which they re-boarded on the other side. The bridge is limited to 2½-tons and the unloaded bus weighs about 5-tons. State Highway Department doesn't allow bus to cross with children on board. This procedure happens twice a day. ## Improvement Policy Is Tivoli Subject

TIVOLI

Community improvement headed the list of topics at the Tivoli Village Board budget hearing Monday evening.

Newly elected Mayor Mortimer Appel announced the offering of four undetermined prizes to the four village homes that had been improved the most by the end of the current summer. "A private contribution has been made for this purpose," he stated.

Will Not Raise Taxes

In line with the improvement policy his administration is taking, Appel announced that the taxes will not be raised because of painting buildings, and he hopes that many citizens will make the village an improved place to live by cleaning up their homes.

One resident in the audience voiced the opinion that his taxes had gone up because of building improvements and "why not give people an incentive to improve their homes instead of taxing them and penalizing them for it?"

"I wish we could do it the way they do in California and tax those that don't improve and keep up their property," said Appel, "but the law here does not allow that."

Reassessment was done for the first time in 10 years this winter.

The Board of Trustees unanimously passed the 1969-70 budget, which will raise the tax rate by $1.05 per thousand of assessed valuation. Tivoli rate is 23 per cent of true value.

Tivoli Acres, a 56-lot development with sewer system and water, has been deeded to the village because of non-payment of $72,000 in back taxes, by the Acme Trading Company. The county relinquished rights to the property.

The board announced a campaign to put the property on the market. The village has received several feelers already from commercial concerns and real estate brokers.

"We know that a man has bought the old Tivoli school and intends to set up a lamp factory," said Appel. "We had to go back 114 years to clear the title, but the machinery for producing these lamps, brought up from Long Island, is being moved in now. This will help our economy."

In line with the clean-up policy, the board announced that several abandoned houses will be torn down in the near future, as soon as approval is received from owners. One such building, which presently houses squatters on Carpenter Hill, has already been signed over. The board has the right to condemn a house. A drugstore in the village, owned by the county, will be disposed of by the village and the land given back to the county afterwards. Property owners can be billed for the demolition of the abandoned houses.

The Town of Red Hook has taken steps to clean up the intersection of Routes 9G and 402, the major entrance to Tivoli. Derelict buildings presently mar the intersection.

Will Send Out Bids

It was announced that bids will go out in the middle of

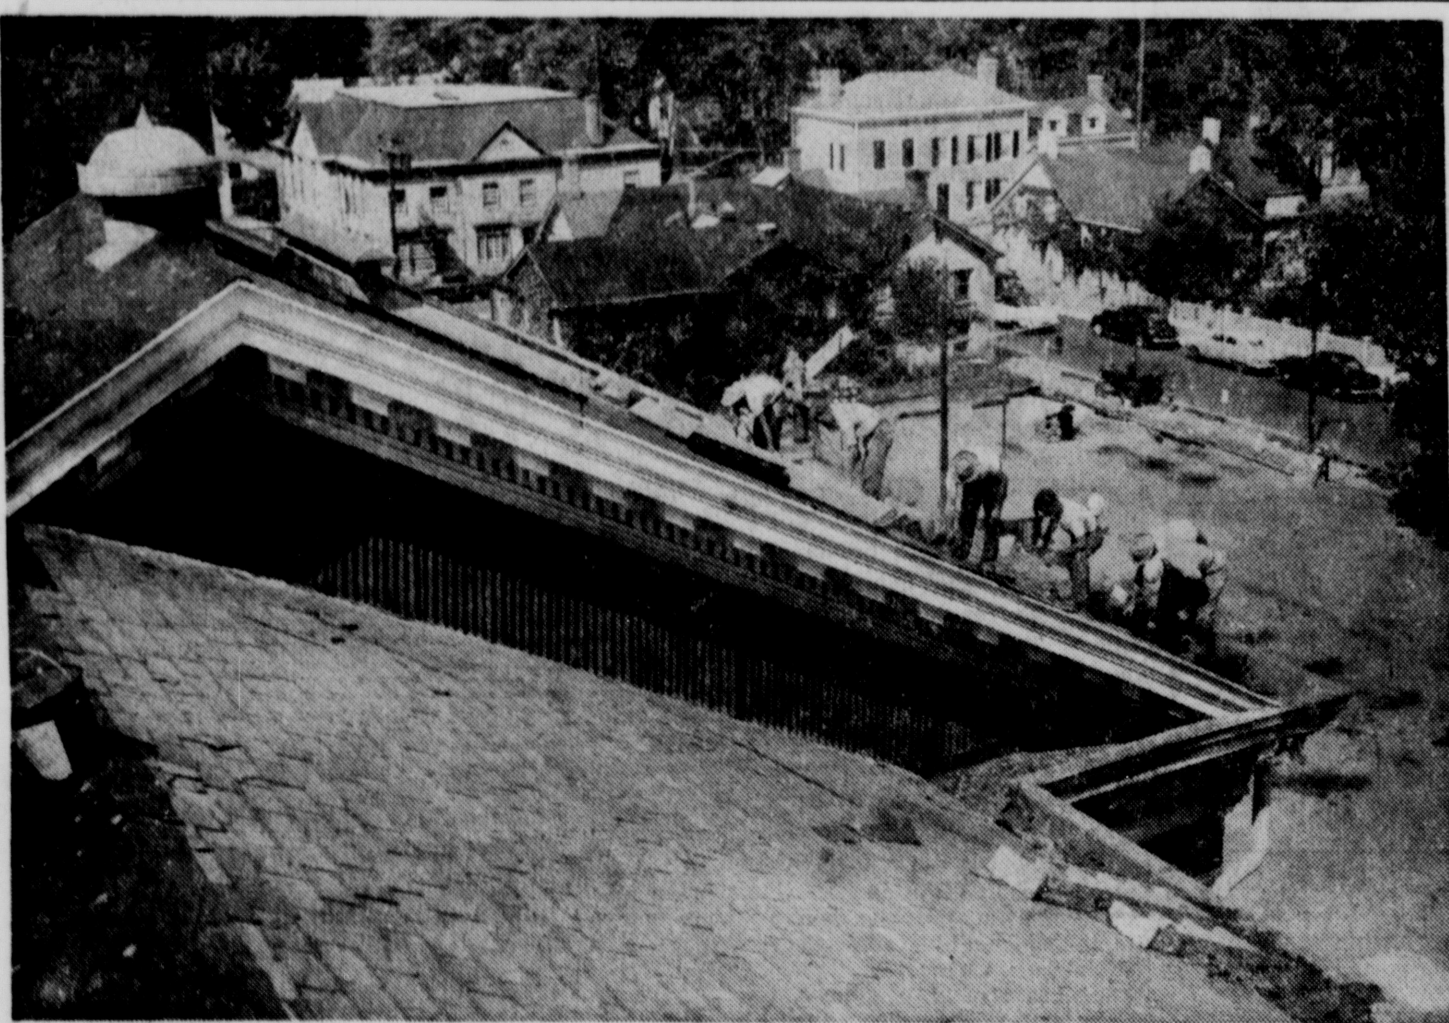

May for construction of a secondary sewage plant.

"The state has mandated this construction, and will pay 60 per cent of the cost. We currently get back 33½ per cent of our sewage expenses from the state," declared John Dembroski, town clerk.

Police costs were raised from on.

$200 to $1,000 "because we will have more need for them now," said Appel, making the tax rate $58.56 per thousand.

"We want to stress that all village board meetings are open to the public," said Mayor Appel. "We meet the first Monday of every month from now."

If you answered last week's question: "Smith Parish", you're a good judge of quality work. In 1953 we removed the slate from the roofs of the main Ulster County Court House and the Courtroom. Next week we'll show how.
